Big Blaze

NO CASUALTIES RESULT

A DISASTROUS fire having its origin in the servants' quarters of C-1, Academic Division, at Ft. Sill, Okla., completely burned to the ground 104 sets of officers' quarters on June 17. The buildings which were completely destroyed were C-1, C-2, B-1, B-2, D-1, D-2 and A-1. Building B-3 was on fire a number of times, but it still remains standing. The occupants and their belongings of C-3 and A-2 were removed therefrom, as was all the equipment from the officers' mess B-4, as for a time the fire seriously threatened the destruction of these buildings. A number of persons were overcome by smoke and heat, but no loss of life or serious injuries were reported.

The following officers occupied the buildings above enumerated, which were completely destroyed, the fire spreading so rapidly that it was impossible to save any of their effects:

Maj. J. E. Lewis, Capt. E. H. Brown, Robert W. Yates, Herman H. F. Gossett, Edgar A. O'Hair, Otis W. Little, Edwin H. Roberts, Maurice V. Reynolds, Harold Kernan, C. A. Rothwell, J. M. Garrett, O. L. Gruhn and G. D. Wahl.

Lts. Joseph P. Donnovin, H. C. Demuth, Randall T. Adams, Frank C. Jedlika, John E. Ray, H. A. Cooney, Walter L. Kluss and G. Heninger.

Warrant Officer Roy Norris and Field Clerk Walter Carmine.

For some time the buildings which have been used as officers' quarters have been commonly referred to as firetraps, and for a good many years a fire of this nature has been prophesied. Due to the prompt response of the Lawton Fire Department and the tenacity with which the enlisted men working as fire fighters stuck to their tasks the fire was eventually checked.

Of the many unsuccessful attempts which have been made to secure adequate appropriations for the construction of proper quarters at Ft. Sill, the hope was expressed by Regular officers on duty in Washington, but who are familiar with the bad housing conditions at the Field Artillery School, that this disaster would bring home to Congress the necessity for appropriating sufficient funds for the erection of modern, fireproof quarters. Similar firetraps such as these at Ft. Sill are housing thousands of both the commissioned and enlisted personnel of the Regular Establishment at other posts and stations throughout the country, but Congress has turned deaf ears to all pleas made by the military authorities for the construction of modern, fireproof quarters for officers and men.

U.S.S. HULBERT LEADS

THE U.S.S. Hulbert, Lt. Comdr. G. N. Reeves, Jr., it was announced by Rear Adm. C. F. Hughes, U.S.N., Director of Fleet Training, Navy Department, was first in the standing of the highest vessels of the Destroyer and Light Mine Layer Class in Engineering Performances for the month of April, 1925. The other vessels of this class in the order of their standing are: (2) Percival, (3) Ludlow, (4) Peary, (5) Yarrow, (6) Burns, (7) Smith Thompson, (8) Reno, (9) Paul Hamilton, and (10) Decatur.

NEW ARMY AIR POLICY DEFINED
FOR OFFICERS NOT OF AIR SERVICE

COL. DWIGHT F. DAVIS, Acting Secretary of War, has approved a new and far-reaching policy which will afford an opportunity for Air Service training to Army officers of all combat branches. This change is prompted by aviation developments, leading to a conclusion that all line officers require such knowledge of the capabilities and limitations of the Air Service as to permit them using it under all conditions of battle, and to a feeling that the general efficiency of such officers will be increased by a limited amount of actual experience in the air.

The policy contemplates that all line officers, in addition to theoretical instruction, will have an opportunity for at least 10 hours actual experience in the air. While the first steps in initiating this policy will apply to juniors and a few field officers, the operation of this policy will in future years insure a majority of all combat officers having had this aerial experience.

INCREASED AIR INSTRUCTION

That part of the courses of instruction at the several Service schools devoted to the Air Service has been increased to an average of 60 hours so as to allow more time for theoretical and demonstration instruction in the tactics and technique of the Air Service.

At West Point this instruction will cover 90 hours and at Leavenworth and the Army War College it will include even more. One officer of the Air Service is hereafter to take the company officers' course at each of the schools for Cavalry, Infantry, Field Artillery and Coast Artillery. One major or senior captain of each of the six other combatant arms of the Service is to take the course at the Air Service Tactical School, Langley Field, Va.

While existing law prohibits in peace compulsory flying for other than aviators and aviation students, beginning with the year 1926 officers of other branches of the Army will be encouraged and given an opportunity to get aerial experience, which will include at least 10 hours in the air.

CHANGES AT U.S.M.C. HDQTRS.

ORDERS will shortly be issued relieving Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, U.S.M.C., from duty as assistant to the commandant of the Marine Corps. Brig. Gen. Dion Williams will succeed General Feland as assistant to the commandant and will be relieved as director of operations and training by Lt. Col. John C. Beaumont, U.S.M.C., fleet Marine officer of the United States Fleet.

General Feland will be assigned to command the tactical units of the Marine Corps Expeditionary Force at Quantico. Maj. Gen. Eli K. Cole, U.S.M.C., will continue as commandant of Quantico, while General Feland will devote his time exclusively to the coordination of the different branches of the expeditionary force.

The announcement of the appointment of two examining boards was made at the Marine Corps Headquarters this week. One board, of which Maj. Gen. Eli K. Cole is president, will examine officers of the field grades for promotion, and the other, of which Brig. Gen. Logan Feland is president, will examine company officers. The Cole board will also hear cases that may be appealed from the Feland board.

IZAAK WALTON DISCIPLE

LT. COL. BRUCE PALMER, Cav., U.S.A., has spent about a week on a fishing trip at Chincoteague Island, Va.

Immediately after graduation leave, members of the West Point graduating class will be sent to an Air Service flying field and there be afforded an opportunity for actual aerial experience.

During their first 15 years of commissioned service all officers who have not had aerial experience after graduating from West Point will be given an opportunity to have this experience in the air. Initially this opportunity will be given to all combatant officers now in the Regular Army since November 11, 1918, and who were not either officers or cadets prior to that date. Moreover, student officers at the Command and General Staff School at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., will be afforded a similar opportunity. Naturally, no officer will be permitted to make flights unless he can pass a prescribed physical examination.

A board of officers, to be convened in the War Department, will prepare the courses of instruction to be followed at the various schools and flying fields as well as the detailed methods of putting this policy into effect.

Officers who have had aerial experience as indicated above will be reported to the War Department as having attained this additional professional qualification. It may be necessary to secure legislation to provide either for flying pay or insurance for officers who engage in this work. Owing to the large number of officers in the Army who will take this course, it is impracticable to give more than approximately 10 hours' aerial experience. However, the Chief of Air Service believes that such training will by practical experience give officers a considerably better acquaintance with Air Service problems.

By the provisions of this policy Infantry, Cavalry, Artillery, other line officers and prospective General Staff officers are brought into close association with Air Service problems, and Air Service officers will learn how best to use their new arm to support the other arm.

CAPTAIN PRICE, U.S.N., RETIRES

CAPT. HENRY B. PRICE, U.S.N., was placed on the retired list on June 26, 1925, but will continue on active duty as Governor of Guam and commandant of the naval station there at least until this fall. Captain Price's administration as Governor of Guam has been so satisfactory that the Secretary of the Navy has indicated that he wished to have him continue until he could select a successor. The Navy Department has had a number of unpleasant affairs in the past in connection with the administration of the government of the island, and the Secretary is inclined to take considerable time in selecting his successor. Captain Price was born in Iowa, June 26, 1869, and entered the Navy in 1889. He has about 20 years of sea service to his credit. He was awarded the Navy Cross "For distinguished service in the line of his profession as commanding officer of the U.S.S. Dixie and as temporary senior officer of the U.S. naval forces on the coast of Ireland." Captain Price is a graduate of the Naval War College and has been serving as Governor of Guam since 1923.

MAY DISCARD GUN RULE

THE War Department is being asked to obsolete the battery commander's rule for 37-mm. gun, as this is considered unnecessary equipment.

GEN. RICKARDS GIVES
UP MIL. BUREAU POSTGen. Hammond, Who Succeeds, Has Fine War
Record

HAVE HAD LONG SERVICE

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE C. RICKARDS, Chief of the Militia Bureau, will give up his office on June 28, after a splendid administration of affairs. He has proved himself a most able officer in every respect, and the National Guard at large has profited greatly by his efficient, broadminded and keen perception in the exercise of the functions of his office. He was the first National Guard officer to hold the post of chief of the Militia Bureau.

General Rickards has had a long and notable military service, which includes duty in the Pennsylvania National Guard. He first began his service with it in 1877, and was promoted through various grades, becoming a brigadier general in 1919. He served during the Spanish-American War, on the Mexican Border, and on the battle line of France he was in command of the 56th Brigade, 28th Division, A.E.F. He was appointed as chief of the Militia Bureau in 1921. General Rickards has received a number of commendations and decorations for his distinguished service in the World War.

The officers of the Regular Army and National Guard on duty in the Militia Bureau of the War Department tendered an enjoyable farewell dinner and dance to General Rickards and to Maj. Gen. Creed C. Hammond, his successor, at the Officers' Club, Washington Barracks, on the evening of July 19.

Those in attendance at the dinner in addition to General and Mrs. Rickards and General and Mrs. Hammond were the Acting Secretary of War, Hon. D. W. Davis, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John L. Hines, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. D. S. Nolan, Col. and Mrs. P. L. Miles, Col. and Mrs. G. F. Baltzell, Col. and Mrs. E. J. Williams, Lt. Col. and Mrs. C. C. Wren, Lt. Col. and Mrs. T. W. Davis, Lt. Col. and Mrs. E. M. Caldwell, Lt. Col. and Mrs. M. A. Campbell, Maj. and Mrs. H. W. Taylor, and the officers of the Militia Bureau and their ladies.

GENERAL HAMMOND

Colonel Hammond, who has been on duty as chief of the Finance Division of the Militia Bureau, and who will assume his new duties as Chief of the Militia Bureau June 29 with the rank of a major general for a term of four years, is considered a most fitting successor to General Rickards.

In making the appointment, the Secretary of War accepted the recommendation of the National Guard of 34 states, as expressed in letters from the governors to the War Department under the provisions of the National Defense Act.

Colonel Hammond has to his credit 32 years of military service of which 9 were in the federal establishment. He served a year and a half on the General Staff and was a member of the original committee appointed in 1920 to assist the War Department in putting the amended National Defense Act into effect. He was born at Eugene, Oreg., on October 9, 1874. He first served in the 2d Oregon Infantry, in April, 1892, and since this time he has practically been in continuous service either in the National Guard or the Regular or National Guard forces.

Colonel Hammond received his first

CHINESE SITUATION IS STILL VERY SERIOUS

Fanatics, Aided By Soviets, Continue To Attack Foreigners

AMERICANS IN DANGER

THE Chinese fanatics, aided by the Soviets, are still engaged in their mad attacks and demonstrations against foreigners, with the British and Japanese as their main targets. Subjects of other countries, however, have been assaulted and killed, including a French merchant and an Italian. British and French marines on June 23 had to fire on a Chinese mob in order to protect the British concession at Canton. Orders have been received to evacuate all missions from Canton on account of the antiforeign feeling. One hundred and fifty refugees, including some 20 Americans from Canton, arrived at the British colony at Hong Kong on June 23 for safety.

The Chinese Provincial Governor has announced that he has taken steps to protect foreign lives and property during the Cantonese general strike, which is growing in proportion daily, but doubt is expressed that he afford adequate protection. Rioters have been damaging foreign property and have engaged in looting and assaulting inhabitants in various cities.

ORDERED TO LEAVE CITY

The American consul at Canton on June 23 ordered all Americans to leave that city because of the strikers. At Ching King, an important missionary center, strikers were out of control on June 19, and Swedish, Polish and British subjects were beaten and the British consul and some of the foreign subjects were forced to take refuge on board foreign warships. This was reported by the American vice-consul.

Consul General Jenkins reported to the American State Department on June 21 that about two-thirds of the American women and children at Canton had left that city for Hong Kong and other safe cities.

The foreign diplomatic corps on June 23 sent a note to the Chinese Government declining to accept responsibility for delays in settling of the Shanghai strike troubles, and charged the Chinese Government with giving an inaccurate version of the recent series of incidents at Shanghai.

Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain, of Great Britain, stated in the House of Commons on June 18 that, with other interested powers, the British Government would protect the life and property of British subjects in China without any hesitation, and would hold the Chinese Government responsible for all injuries and for all damages.

A general strike and boycott of British, Japanese and American goods were decided upon at a meeting of students, workmen and other Chinese citizens at Kwangtung University June 19. Some Chinese newspapers are printing misleading reports regarding the events at Shanghai and other places.

Chinese delegates representing 48 colleges on June 20 sent a deputation to the Minister of War and the Foreign Minister demanding that the Government immediately sever relations with Great Britain.

ORDNANCE MATTERS

TEST of the type DD panoramic sight mounting for 75-mm. gun carriage, model 1897, is nearing completion at the proving ground. This sight mounting will be sent to Ft. Bragg for test by the Field Artillery Board when the test at the proving ground is completed.

Approval of a blank-ammunition firing attachment for the Browning tank machine gun, which has successfully met service tests, has been asked as a standard item for manufacture and issue.

In addition to existing authorized allowances, the War Department has been asked to approve the issue of not to exceed two U. S. rifles, caliber .22, model 1922, M. I., and not to exceed 5,000 rounds of ammunition therefor, to each Service rifle team.

National Rifle Association gallery targets for 50 feet and for 75 feet have been adopted as standard gallery targets for R.O.T.C. and schools operating under provisions of Section 55C, N.D.A.

Steps are being taken to rifle a 3-inch Stokes mortar with a view to increasing the range and accuracy.

The new model anti-aircraft tripod for use with either the caliber .30 or caliber .50 Browning machine gun has been completed and preliminary firing test given at the Bureau of Standards. The tripod is apparently very stable. This tripod will be taken to Ft. Aberdeen for test and then forwarded to the Coast Artillery Board, Ft. Monroe, Va., for service test, with a view to using a similar tripod during the anti-aircraft maneuvers this Summer.

An order has recently been placed with Springfield Armory for 2,000 brass bristle cleaning brushes for use with the National Match Rifles at Camp Perry.

Capt. Edward E. Tanguy, O.R.C., on May 31, 1925, completed a period of 15 days' training in the office of the Small Arms Division.

CHICAGO DEFENSE TEST PLANS

COL. WILLIAM B. GRAHAM, Inf., has been detailed by Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale to make arrangements for general participation in Defense Test Day plans in Chicago. Although greatly handicapped by short time remaining, assurance has been received that Chicago will respond largely to the call. Colonel Graham has secured the support of the Association of Commerce, which is sending out a letter urging all members to cooperate by having read or posting General Hale's message to "Industry," for the benefit of all employees. Plans are perfected for sending speakers to all public parks and forest preserves in Cook County, where the need for and purpose of the Defense Test will be explained to crowds which will assemble on July 4. Many Reserve units will also be mobilized. Indications point to a very successful accomplishment of the plan for the test, in spite of the serious handicap of short time granted.

COL. SHERRILL CAPITAL HOST

LT. COL. CLARENCE O. SHERRILL, U.S.A., custodian of public buildings and grounds at Washington, D. C., is the Capital's greatest host. Through the medium of the automobile tourist camp in Potomac Park, of which he has charge, Colonel Sherrill entertains from 100 to 300 guests daily, the average number being 150. While a nominal fee is charged for certain privileges, practically everything about the camp is free, and this attracts a large number of tourists who would otherwise seek another route. When the tourist camp was first installed two years ago it housed few, if any, tourists daily. The large number of people coming south for the Winter, or going back north for the Summer, soon found that they could spend a pleasant few days at the Capital viewing the sights peculiar to Washington, and the camp began to enjoy an increased patronage.

LT. SALTZMAN IN ACCIDENT

AN automobile operated by Lt. Charles A. Saltzman, U.S.A., on June 20 accidentally killed a 2-year-old girl and injured her 6-year-old sister at Chester, Pa. Lieutenant Saltzman was backing his car to allow a trolley car to pass. A policeman had signaled the Lieutenant to back his car, who, not knowing the children were behind him, moved his machine and the unfortunate accident resulted. Witnesses hold that Lieutenant Saltzman was entirely blameless.

Although Maj. Gen. Charles McKay Saltzman, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, who was with his son at the time, was required to put up a bond, this is regarded merely as a formality, as the local authorities were of the opinion that neither of them would be found guilty of any offense. General Saltzman, Mrs. Saltzman and Lieutenant Saltzman, who were on their way to Lake George, N. Y., to spend their vacation, were permitted to proceed on their way.

Lieutenant Saltzman, when he realized the accident, immediately leaped from his machine and rendered all the assistance possible.

SEC. WILBUR CONFERS ON BUDGET ESTIMATES

Increases To Be Asked For Have Not Yet Been Decided

SECY TO SEE SEN. HALE

BEFORE leaving on his western trip on June 29, the Secretary of the Navy held a number of conferences with the Chief of Naval Operations, bureau chiefs and the budget officers of the Navy Department, at which the preliminary estimates that are to be in the hands of the Director of the Budget by July 15 were considered.

It was decided that the estimates would be based upon a Navy strength of 8,397 officers and 86,000 men. The Marine Corps is to be with approximately 1,000 officers and 19,000 men. Under this plan there will be 4,916 line officers, 2,026 staff officers, and 1,455 commissioned chief warrant officers and lower warrant officers in the Navy.

What will be asked for under the head of increase for the Navy in the way of construction had not been decided when the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL went to press.

INSPECTED SCHOOL

Before leaving, the Secretary of the Navy made a personal inspection of the Marine Corps Correspondence School at the Washington Barracks. The Secretary expressed himself as highly gratified at the creditable work that is being done by this school. That now 42 per cent of the Marines are voluntarily taking this course, he said, spoke volumes for the character of the work.

On his western trip the Secretary will meet Chairman Hale, of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, at Chicago. It is understood that the chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee has made a request for the conference, at which he will discuss the naval legislative program for the next session of Congress. Senator Hale recently returned from a trip to Hawaii and a visit to the naval bases and stations on the Pacific coast.

The Secretary has not yet decided when he will join the midshipmen on their practice cruise. His original plan was to join the squadron at San Diego, but he has been held at Washington longer than he expected and may not join until the squadron reaches San Francisco.

REV. MAC FARLAND IN EUROPE

REV. CHARLES S. MACFARLAND, who holds a commission as chaplain in the Organized Reserves and is general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, is now in Europe as special commissioner representing the General Committee on Army and Navy Chaplains, on a visit to the American cemeteries in France and Belgium.

AERONAUTICS AT N.Y.U.

THE announcement that Mr. Daniel Guggenheim has given $500,000 to the New York University for the establishment of a school of aeronautics has attracted the attention of the Army and Navy. It is anticipated in the Service that this school will exert an important influence upon the development of aviation throughout the country.

Educators generally will watch the development of the school with absorbing interest. If it popularizes the flying game at the New York University other large institutions will not be slow in establishing similar schools to that of the "Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics," as it will be known. The university authorities intend to make an application to the War Department for an air unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at an early date. This will lead to the assignment of a Regular air officer as an instructor at the university.

The university authorities are proceeding in about the same manner to establish aeronautics as the Navy Department is at the Naval Academy. The building provided for by the Guggenheim gift will not be completed for about a year. A great deal of time is to be given to a careful study and preparation of the plans and specifications in order to insure the best designs possible for the use of the air units. In the interim the classes in aeronautics will pursue their study in the engineering buildings on the campus.

CAPTAIN TRAIN TO SEA DUTY

CAPT. CHARLES R. TRAIN, U.S.N., who has been taking treatment at the Naval Hospital, has entirely recovered and will again assume command of the Henderson, relieving Capt. Lewis B. Porterfield, who will report to the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation. Capt. F. L. Sheffield, U.S.N., inspector of engineering material at Philadelphia, has been ordered to the Navy Department, where he will succeed Capt. Milton E. Reed as member of the Naval Examining and Retiring Board. It is understood that Captain Reed will retire shortly.

NAVY SUPPLY CONFERENCE

A CONFERENCE of the Supply officers of the east coast yards and stations will take place at Brooklyn, N. Y., on July 9. The purpose of the conference is to study a new system of stock arrangement and inventory procedure that has been recently developed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. It is planned to adopt a uniform system of inventory procedure, so as to coordinate the accounting system throughout the Navy.

SIGNAL SCHOOL

The 19th graduation exercises of the Signal School, Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., took place on June 15. The exercises were preceded by a review of all troops at the post for Maj. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, Chief Signal Officer of the Army.

In his address to the members of the 1925 graduating class General Saltzman stressed particularly the great contrast between graduation at this time and that of 19 years ago at the first class graduation from the Army Signal School. He also pointed out the remarkable comparison of the total amount of division signal equipment of 19 years ago with that which is now necessary within the division.

Lt. Col. J. E. Hemphill, S.C., commandant of the school, followed General Saltzman with a shorter talk to the class, emphasizing the particular need for standardized methods in communication throughout the Army. The address given by Maj. P. W. Evans, assistant commandant of the school, which followed that of Colonel Hemphill, consisted mainly of amusing details that occurred during the school year.

The following commissioned officers are announced as graduates the Signal School, 1924-1925 course, and are relieved as students, effective June 15:

HAITI UNREST REPORT CALLED PROPAGANDA

Brig. Gen. Fuller Expresses Surprise At Current Agitation

COUNTRY IS PROSPEROUS

NOW that the Navy has created staple conditions on the island of Haiti, and has made property and life safe upon what used to be a disturbed area, a systematic attempt is being made in this country to discredit the American administration. There is so much appearing in the daily press on the subject that the Navy Department is inclined to believe that the propaganda should be investigated. Intimations have been made that interests that are seeking to victimize the inhabitants of the island with some wild schemes are behind the agitation. Of course, disappointed former office holders on the islands are active in the matter, but it is thought in some quarters that there is some more powerful interest really behind the agitation.

AGITATION SURPRISING

Brig. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, U.S.M.C., who was ordered to Marine Corps Headquarters from Haiti this week on other duties, called on the Secretary of the Navy and expressed his surprise that there should be any agitation over the administration of the islands in this country. He said when he left Haiti that there seemed to be no discontent upon the island and that business was in a very prosperous condition.

The original treaty which gave the American Government its present authority over Haiti was ratified May 3, 1916. Under its terms it could be extended upon the application of either of the high contracting parties 10 years, if its purpose had not been fully accomplished. On March 28, 1917, at the instance of Haiti, the treaty was extended 20 years from the original date of its ratification. Haiti was in the market for a loan, and the financiers would not extend it except on the condition that the treaty would be extended. The treaty was extended for the benefit of Haiti.

That conditions are growing better in Haiti is proven by the reduction that has been made in the force of Marines maintained on the island. Originally, it required 1,800 Marines to maintain order. In three years there was a reduction of 450 in the force. The Navy Department is now preparing for further reductions, and a very small force is required to maintain better conditions on the island than has existed in years previous to American occupation.

VETS FOR ADEQUATE DEFENSE

COMMUNICATIONS received by the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL from organizations of veterans show clearly that the soldiers, not only of the World War but of the Spanish and Civil Wars, are becoming thoroughly alarmed at the threatened reduction in the strength of the Army and Navy. A number of organizations have asked for suggestions as to resolutions that should be passed to make their views known to the President and Congress.

In one of these communications to the Editor of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, a commander of an organization says:

"We are interested as ex-soldiers in maintaining a proper National Defense, and at the last meeting of our camp we voted to send resolutions to the President, the Senators of our State, and to our Congressman, advising against further reductions of the Army and Navy. Your recent editorial expresses our view, and we would be pleased if you draft it in form of a resolution."

In response to this and other requests, the following suggestion for a resolution is made:

1. Whereas the President has so clearly and forcibly stated "Unfortunately, the Federal Government has strayed far afield from its legitimate business";

2. And whereas the preamble of the Federal Constitution sets forth that the Union was established for "common defense"; be it

3. Resolved, That in the campaign for economy in the expenses of the Federal Government, the War Department estimate be not reduced to the point where the Army of the United States, composed of the Regular Army, National Guard, and Organized Reserves, can not be maintained to carry out our new democratic military policy under the amended National Defense Act.

4. And be it further resolved, That the Navy Department estimate be not reduced below the point where the Navy is not maintained at treaty strength.

The suggestions contained in these resolutions can be elaborated, so as to set forth that the President's address on the Budget, outlined the policy under which the overshadowing function of the Federal Government is to maintain an Army and Navy for National Defense. It can be pointed out that the amended National Defense Act gives the country the first real military policy that is in keeping with the traditions of the American people in that it provides for a small Regular Army, one of its chief functions being to instruct and train citizen soldiers. It can be pointed out that all that is being asked by Secretary Weeks is a Regular Army of sufficient strength to act as a faculty for the Army of the United States and provide for the garrisoning of our foreign possessions, and as a small emergency force to protect the citizens of the United States.

For the Navy, the resolution should emphasize the obligations of this country to maintain an efficient sea force up to the limits of the treaty. In doing this, the United States is not making a threat against the peace of the world, but merely carrying out the provisions of the Washington Conference.

An adequate Army and Navy of course includes an Air Force for each. Both of them require increases for their Air Forces, and the Regular Army, to carry out the provisions of the National Defense Act, requires a thousand additional officers, as provided for in the Bacon bill, and enlisted strength of 150,000. There should be larger appropriations next year for the National Guard to permit its development, and the Organized Reserves, including its feeders, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and the Military Training Camps.

Veteran organizations, patriotic societies and others can use the above as a foundation for restrictions for an adequate national defense.

LIGHT CRUISER TURBINES

ACCORDING to reports received at the Navy Department, the operations of the main turbines on the light cruisers have been far from satisfactory. After numerous conferences between the engineering authorities at the Navy Department and the engine-building concerns, it has been decided to modify the main turbines of the Raleigh and the Detroit.

In order not to lose any time for the cruisers, the Chief of Naval Operations has authorized a full power test of either the Raleigh or the Detroit on their return from the Panama Canal to their home yards. The full power test will consist of four-hour duration periods during which the speed of the cruisers will be increased two hours in each succeeding period, up to 24 knots per hour.

When the cruiser which has taken this test arrives at its home yard, it will be inspected with a view of determining what modifications are necessary. It is believed that the modifications of both cruisers can be made during the repair period.

ARMY MUSIC SCHOOL

GRADUATION exercises for the 1925 class of the Army Music School were held at Washington Barracks, Washington, D. C., on June 19, the band leaders' and bandmen courses graduating 5 and 21 students respectively. Chaplain Julian E. Yates, executive officer, office of the Chief of Chaplains, gave the invocation, which was followed by a musical selection rendered by the Army Band, W. J. Stannard, leader.

Opening remarks were made by Col. Thomas A. Roberts, U.S.A., who was followed by Brig. Gen. Lutz Wahl, assistant to The Adjutant General of the Army, who, after addressing the class, presented the diplomas. Upon the conclusion of the exercises the graduates were tendered a graduation dinner at the barracks.

The Army Music School faculty board consists of the following: Capt. R. G. Sherman, Inf., D.O.L., commandant; Warrant Officer William C. White, principal of music; Warrant Officer John S. Martin, assistant principal of music; Warrant Officer William J. Cain, executive officer.

DIRECTOR OF BUDGET SAVES THREE BILLIONS

Savings At the Expense of the Army and Navy Hurtful

ECONOMIES OF SERVICES

IN announcing his intentions of keeping the Budget for the fiscal year of 1927 down to $3,080,000,000, exclusive of the Postal Service, President Coolidge put his finger on the real cause for the increase in the cost of the Federal Government in recent years. He praised General Lord's efforts in slashing the Budget, and expressed the belief that the Federal authorities would be able to carry out his program. When the President turned the business meeting of the department over to General Lord, "to go into details," as he expressed it, the Director of the Budget gave "honorable mention" to both the Army and Navy in referring to economies that had been effected.

"Unfortunately,"

said the President, in pointing out the causes for the increase in the cost of the Government,

"the Federal Government has strayed far afield from its legitimate business. It has trespassed upon fields where there should be no trespass. If we could confine our Federal expenditures to the legitimate obligations and functions of the Federal Government a material reduction would be apparent. But far more important than this would be its effect upon the fabric of our constitutional form of government, which tends to be gradually weakened and undermined by this encroachment."

In concluding his address, the President said:

"I will now turn this meeting over to General Lord, the Director of the Bureau of the Budget. You have no better friend, no more faithful adviser in your efforts for efficient public service. His broad grasp of the needs and requirements of the Government, his patience in careful investigation, his sound judgment and wise discretion have all been devoted to his country at a very great personal sacrifice. It would be difficult to estimate the help that he has given you and me and impossible to recompense him for the faithfulness with which he has successfully served the American people. He stands as an example of the honest, earnest, conscientious service which characterizes the government of our country. He will give you more in detail what has been done in the past and what we propose to do in the future."

PRAISE FOR ARMY AND NAVY

After describing how the Budget beginning in 1922 has been gradually reduced, and relating his experience in the formation of "2 per cent clubs," the members of which had pledged a reduction of 2 per cent in the operating expenses of the Government, General Lord said:

"One of the first to respond was the Navy Department, which gladdened the heart of the Director of the Bureau of Budgets with promise of a reduction of $6,600,000 in the estimated expenditure."

General Lord, it is pointed out by friends of the Services, did not admit that this reduction was at the expense of the efficiency and strength of the Navy. The so-called saving was largely due to the postponement of the work on the ships in the process of construction.

A real economy is pointed out by General Lord in a reference to the Office of the Quartermaster General. Referring to the work done there, General Lord said:

"An excellent illustration of constructive economy where reduction in appropriations resulted in increased efficiency is found in the experience of the Office of the Quartermaster General of the Army. This important office had 19 separate record systems, employing 120 clerks. That office today is justifiably proud of its improved, efficient, central record system, operated with 42 clerks in place of 120 clerks. Expert inspection shows this new record system, directly resulting from curtailment of funds, to be one of the best, if not the best, in the Government."

General Davis received a very flattering notice from the Director of the Budget, who declared that a saving of almost $300,000, was effected in handling the World War Adjusted Compensation Act. Referring to this work, General Lord said:

"Our effort, however, is not confined to small savings. The Adjutant General of the Army needed a great deal of office equipment to carry out the provisions of the World War adjusted compensation act. In order to save public funds, he combed Federal offices in Washington and neighboring cities for desks, tables, chairs, typewriters and other supplies. He called upon other departments and bureaus of the Government for help. In a loyal spirit of cooperation they responded and assisted in effecting one of the finest examples of coordination of record. A saving of $289,000 was effected."

By the coordination of the communication systems of the Army and Navy, General Lord declared that a million dollars was saved. Describing this work, the Director of the Budget said:

"We are coordinating the Government's telegraph and cable business. By loading to saturation the Government's leased telegraph lines, and by making more general use of the Army and Navy wireless hundreds of thousands of dollars are being saved. During the calendar year ending December 31 last, 9,827,564 words were taken off commercial lines and transmitted by Navy wireless for other executive departments. If we had used commercial lines for these messages, many of which went overseas, the cost would have been in excess of $1,000,000."

General Lord claimed that there has been a reduction in the printing bill of the Government in three years amounting to $9,455,542.17. "A typical example," said General Lord, "of how these savings were effected is furnished by the Navy Department, which issued 17,500 copies of the Navy Register in 1920, while issues this current year are limited to 5,000 copies." He did not explain, it is declared, how this economy falls largely on the shoulders of officers and enlisted men of the Navy. Not being able to secure Registers through the usual channels, and needing them in their work, officers and enlisted men have been compelled to purchase the official Registers of the Navy.

SAVING THE OLD CONSTITUTION

THE Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has taken over the job of saving "Old Ironsides," the U.S.S. Constitution, the most famous old ship in the United States Navy, now in a sad state of decay. She was originally launched 128 years ago. Into every school of the Nation the Elks will carry the thrilling history of this old ship and ask the school children to raise $500,000 to rebuild her as a shrine of the Navy.

Rear Admiral de Steiguer, U.S.N., commandant of the 1st Naval District, with headquarters at the Boston Navy Yard where the old frigate is moored, is chairman of the national committee, and he has designated October 12 to 18 as "Old Ironsides" week and has asked the Elks to arrange for patriotic exercises in every schoolroom in the Nation and recount the thrilling sea battles of the U. S. frigate Constitution and the early history of our Navy.

U. S. NAVAL RESERVE

THE Secretary of the Navy signed 137 commissions on June 23, giving the officers concerned confirmed rank in Class 6, U. S. Naval Reserve Force. They had previously held provisional rank in the same class.

THIRTEEN Midshipmen in the Naval Reserve Force are now on the summer practice cruise with the Midshipmen of the U. S. Navy. The Reserve Midshipmen are on the U.S.S. Arkansas. Lt. Comdr. Philip V. Weems, U.S.N., is in charge of the group, which is composed of St. Johns University students.

AFTER the decision of the Comptroller General that only those provisional officers who hold the same provisional rank on June 30, 1925, as that in which first enrolled are entitled to pay for drills or duty after that date but prior to appointment in the new Naval Reserve, the Bureau of Navigation promulgated the following policy:

"Officers who on 30 June, 1925, hold provisional rank and who do not hold any confirmed rank, may be ordered to training duty with pay, within the prescribed district training quotas, provided the provisional rank held on 30 June, 1925, is the same as that in which first enrolled.

"All other officers who hold provisional rank on 30 June, 1925, shall not be ordered to training duty with pay until appointed in the new Naval Reserve. An appointment is considered completed only when a commission in the new Naval Reserve has been delivered and the oath and acceptance of office have been executed by the appointee.

"The Bureau desires that Naval Reserve officers desiring appointment coming within the below mentioned categories be physically examined on 1 July, 1925, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable and apply on the same date for appointment in the new Naval Reserve.

"All officers who hold provisional rank on 30 June, 1925.

"All officers whose enrollments expire prior to 1 October, 1925."

TURKEY ORDERS SUBS

A ROTTERDAM company is reported to have received an order for two submarines for Turkey, and a Lubeck firm an order for a 26,000-ton floating dock.

RETIRED PERSONNEL OF REGULARS IN N. G.

Status Officially Defined By Comptroller General Of United States

MUST MEET REGULATIONS

A NUMBER of inquiries have reached the Militia Bureau of the War Department of late as to the status of retired officers, retired warrant officers and retired enlisted men of the Regular Army in the National Guard. Retired warrant officers, it is pointed out by the Militia Bureau, and retired enlisted men of the Regular Army, are eligible for appointment as officers and warrant officers in the National Guard. They are likewise eligible for enlistment in the National Guard.

In every case the qualifications for appointment or enlistment as prescribed in the National Defense Act and National Guard Regulations must be met. Special attention is invited to the fact that original enlistments must be entered into before an applicant is 45 years of age.

The Comptroller General of the United States on May 23, 1925, rendered an opinion on the pay of retired warrant officers and retired enlisted men of the Regular Army who are members of the National Guard, from which the following chief extracts are given:

"The appointment of retired warrant officers and retired enlisted men of the Regular Army as commissioned officers, warrant officers, or the enlistment of such retired persons in the National Guard being within the law; that force when not in the actual service of the United States being a state force; and the provision for pay for certain forms of training of the National Guard being indirectly a contribution from the Federal Government to the states for the proper training of the militia, such retired warrant officers and retired enlisted men are entitled to any pay properly accruing under their appointment or enlistment in the National Guard when not in Federal service, and such payments will not affect their retired pay. Where, however, organizations of the National Guard of which retired officers, warrant officers or enlisted men of the Army are members, are called into the actual service of the United States or are drafted into the Army of the United States under Section 111 of the National Defense Act and become entitled to receive by reason of such entry into the Federal service the full pay and allowances prescribed by law for their rank or grade in the National Guard in the actual service of the United States, they will not be entitled to their retired pay."

It was previously held in a decision of the Comptroller of the Treasury, 23 Comp. Dec. 649, which has been followed by the Comptroller General, that retired officers of the Regular Army who are commissioned in the National Guard are entitled, in addition to their retired pay, to Federal pay for the performance of National Guard duties with a National Guard organization not in Federal service. Their retired pay would be affected only as indicated in the second sentence of the extract from the Comptroller General's decision quoted in the preceding paragraph.

MacMILLAN EXPEDITION SAILS FOR FAR NORTH

THE exploring steamer Peary, of the MacMillan Arctic expedition, accompanied by the auxiliary Bowdoin, left the navy yard, Boston, June 17, after impressive ceremonies aboard the old frigate Constitution. The expedition, which is under the auspices of the National Geographic Society, which is financing it, will explore the uncharted area between Alaska and the North Pole. The Peary will go as far as Etah, which will be the base.

Lt. Comdr. Richard E. Byrd, U.S.N., is head of the naval aviation unit which will navigate the three amphibian airplanes over the polar sea and has six Navy men with him as pilots and mechanics.

The expedition will be in radio communication with the entire world. The amphibian planes which the Peary carries will allow MacMillan to accomplish as much in one day as he would in 15 months if confined to the use of ships or dog teams, it is claimed.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, at a farewell dinner at Wiscasset, June 19, to Commander MacMillan, authorized the Arctic explorer to plant the flag of the State of Maine on any unknown territory he might discover and claim it on behalf of the state.

The land which MacMillan expects to find lies in an entirely different region than the 160,000 square kilometers of territory which Amundsen surveyed in his recent flight without noting traces of land. MacMillan looks for a continent of flowers, birds and fishes, and scientists aboard his ships are prepared to study the elements which help cause weather changes down here below and the animal and plant life.

Because of alleged failure on the part of the civilian section of the MacMillan Arctic expedition to carry out the agreement entered in at the Navy Department, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur threatened to withdraw from the enterprise on June 20. He did this in a radio sent to Lt. Comdr. R. E. Byrd, U.S.N., in charge of the Navy section of the expedition. The disagreement grew out of the failure of the expedition to install on the Peary, one of the ships of the expedition, a Navy long-wave radio apparatus.

It now develops that E. F. McDonald, second in command of the MacMillan expedition, objected originally to the use of any Navy radio equipment. Mr. McDonald is an official of the Zenith Radio Corporation, and proposed that the entire expedition should be equipped with the Zenith broadcasting apparatus. The Navy Department insisted upon its standard equipment as well, on account of its being better adapted to maintaining communications with airplanes.

While Mr. McDonald finally agreed to the Navy's proposition in framing the agreement, when the ships left Boston, and again at Wiscasset, Me., he refused to take on board the Navy equipment. He gave as his alibi the statement that there was not room on the ship for the Navy equipment. This was not accepted by the Secretary of the Navy, and accordingly he sent the following radiogram to Commander Byrd at Nova Scotia:

"U.S.S. Florida's spark set is being sent you at Sydney, by destroyer Putnam. Planes will not make flight away from vicinity of base ship until spark set is installed to insure communication with planes and to give compass bearings to planes as originally agreed upon. Inform MacMillan of department's decision, which is for purpose of safeguarding planes and personnel. If these instructions cannot be complied with, arrange to land planes and personnel at Sydney for return to the United States. Acknowledge."

The Peary and the Bowdoin were ordered held at Sydney until the destroyer Putnam could arrive with the Navy radio equipment. Secretary Wilbur proposes that there shall be no discrimination in favor of any news agency in making public information from the expedition.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

CAPT. STANFORD E. MOSES, U.S.N., commander of aircraft squadrons, Battle Fleet, has been placed in command of the West Coast-Hawaiian flight. It has not been definitely decided whether the start will be made from San Francisco or San Diego. The commander in chief of the United States Fleet, Admiral Coontz, has charge of all arrangements and final plans have not yet reached the Navy Department. It is expected that the flight will begin about September 2. The aircraft tender Aroostook, aircraft carrier Langley, and the battleship Arizona will probably be used as station ships in gathering geological data, forwarding the weather reports, and relay dispatches. They will be stationed approximately 600, 1,200 and 1,800 miles along the line of the flight from starting point at either San Francisco or San Diego and Hawaii.

Six destroyers and two minesweepers will be used to guard the line of the flight and will take station between the west coast and Hawaii. They will be: Deyen, Farragut, McCawley, William Jones, Meyer, Reno, and minesweepers Tanager and Whippoorwill.

NEW MARINE CORPS OFFICERS

IN addition to the 16 graduates from the Naval Academy who were assigned to the Marine Corps, 25 second lieutenants are to be commissioned in the Marine Corps from the 31 distinguished military schools. The diplomas from these institutions will be accepted as mental qualifications and all that will be required of the candidates are physical examinations. These examinations are now in progress at the schools, where there is quite a spirited contest for the commissions.

The 16 members of this year's Naval Academy class who have been commissioned in the corps as of June 4 will rank in the following order:

E. J. Trumble, H. D. Harris, M. S. Rahiser, F. J. Uhlig, A. Zuber, R. E. Hogaboom, F. H. Brink, J. Snedeker, J. D. Blanchard, J. N. Hart, L. C. Goudeau, A. R. Peffey, S. R. Williams, W. A. Page, J. H. Stillman and H. C. Waterman.

SPECIAL SERVICE NEWS AND COMMENT

BY E. B. JOHNS

THERE will be no changes in the detail of specifications for the new coat for officers of the Army Air Service, excepting those that are necessary for a roll, or, more strictly speaking, lapel collar, like the civilian coat. The back, the pockets and the skirt of the coat will be the same as the present officers' coat.

Although it has not yet been decided, in all probability the lapel collar will be similar to the prevailing fashion for civilian coats. It has not been decided whether the coat will have three buttons in front or four. The experts are said to be divided upon the subject. A number of sessions have been held at which this subject was discussed by the committee in the Quarter-master Corps from all points of view.

GENERAL OFFICER CHANGES

THE announcement of the transfer of Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U.S.A., on June 28, from the command of the 4th Corps Area to that of the 3d Corps Area, with headquarters at Baltimore, on August 1, is the first of a number of important changes in commands of the Army that will take place this Summer and early in the Fall. General MacArthur relieves Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis, 3d Corps Area, who will be retired on August 1, on account of age. He has been granted a leave until that date, and Brig. Gen. Robert E. Callan, commander of the 3d Coast Artillery District, senior officer in the 3d Corps Area, will be acting commandant until General MacArthur assumes his new command.

Announcement is also made in orders of this issue that Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Winans will be relieved of the command of the 8th Infantry Brigade, Ft. McPherson, Ga., and assigned to command the 1st Cavalry Brigade at Ft. Clark, Tex. Brig. Gen. LeRoy Eltinge, who was relieved some time ago as Assistant Chief of General Staff, War Plans Division, has been assigned to the 8th Infantry Brigade at Ft. McPherson, Ga., to report on August 7.

The transfer of General MacArthur to the Third Corps Area not only leaves a vacancy in the 4th Corps Area at Atlanta, but on July 10 there will be another vacancy in the Sixth Corps Area, upon the retirement for age of Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale. The retirement of Maj. Gen. George B. Duncan, on October 10, will create a vacancy of commander in the 7th Corps Area. Another important vacancy will come shortly after, when Maj. Gen. William H. Johnston will retire for age on October 19, and give up the command of the 3d Division at Camp Lewis, Wash.

Although the War Department may have other plans, it would be natural to assume that Brig. Gen. William S. Graves will relieve General Hale of the command of the 6th Corps Area, as he advances to the grade of major general by the retirement of General Hale. General Graves has been on duty with the 1st Division, either as its commander or commander of a brigade of it, practically ever since its return from France.

It is not believed that Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, who attained that grade on June 18, will be continued long in his present assignment at Vancouver Barracks, but will be given some more important assignment.

JUGGLING THE BUDGET

RECENT instructions from the Bureau of Navigation reveal the system employed by the Budget, of reducing the strength of the Navy without any action on the part of Congress. For some time the Army has not been maintained at the strength authorized by the acts of Congress, through a shortage of funds, which were covered in the Budget. After a stormy debate on the floor of the House, the strength of the Regular Army was reduced to 125,000. But at no time, or at least not frequently, has the strength of the Regular Army been up to even this reduction. The Director of the Budget in effect has kept the strength of the Army below 120,000. It is now about 119,000, although it was heralded to the country that the Regular Army was cut only to 125,000.

Up to this fiscal year of 1926 the Navy Department has been able to resist this secret and unauthorized reduction in the strength of the enlisted force of the Navy. It has been kept close to 80,000, which was the strength fixed by Congress after a heated discussion. Now, it is acknowledged in the instructions sent out from the Bureau of Navigation, to the request for additional enlisted men at certain shore stations, that the Navy is below its authorized strength.

The following is a quotation from the reply from the Bureau of Navigation:

"With the shortage of funds under the appropriations 'Pay, Navy' for 1926, it is quite probable that it will become necessary to reduce the total strength of the enlisted personnel below 80,000, and the difference must be compensated for by a withdrawal of men from these duties considered of least immediate value to the Fleet.

"In view of the conditions that are likely to obtain in the next fiscal year, this bureau would not be justified in adding to the already large shore establishments other new activities that will demand additional personnel. Requirements of the forces afloat must take precedence in the assignment of personnel, and the Fleet must be the last to bear any reduction that may become necessary."

In this quotation there is not only the admission that the Navy is now short of its supposed-to-be minimum strength, but there is danger of a further reduction.

Under the Budget system, an act of Congress, fixing the strength of the Army and Navy, is not much more than a statement of abstract principle. Congress in effect says that the Army and Navy should have so many enlisted men, but in juggling the Budget the Services do not get them. Chairman Madden, of the House Committee on Appropriations, some time ago created a sensation by charging that the Navy Department exceeded the authorized appropriations in expenditures.

How about the Director of the Budget's constant failure to report to Congress expenditures which have not been authorized? Is the Director of the Budget above the laws of the land?

ECONOMY IN THE NAVY

ACCORDING to reports received at the Navy Department, the fleet is imbued with the true policy of economy in the handling of radio material and plants. The same is true with a number of the shore stations, where, as in the fleet, practically all of the work of installing and changing radio equipment is being done by the officers and men.

Recently the Navy Department authorized the installation of a remote control station and compass at Lakehurst. The limit of the improvement was fixed at $1,000, but by using the labor at the station the work was done for $133.33.

The transfer of the power unit and 5 k. w. spark transmitter from the U.S.S. Ajax to the Pecos, in the Asiatic Fleet, was done by the ship's force without any expense to the Government. These are only typical of the way that radio equipment is being handled on the fleet and shore stations.

GENERAL LORD'S "ECONOMY"

WHILE General Lord was describing in glowing terms the "constructive economy" of the Bureau of the Budget, Assistant Secretary of the Navy and a group of friends were arranging to pay the expenses of the Navy boat crew which won such a splendid victory on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie. Due to the wonderful "constructive economies" of General Lord and his corps of hairsplitters, the Bureau of Navigation refused to authorize the travel pay for the Navy crew in order that it could participate in the race. The Bureau of Navigation simply did not have the money. It is hard pressed for funds to pay even routine expenses of the officers and men for transportation.

In the first place, the Navy Athletic Association paid the expenses of the rowing crew on its trip from Annapolis to New York. Further than this, it was necessary to send the Navy's boat crew to the Pacific by rail after the race to join the practice cruise squadron. The cost of this trip was $1,500, and the Assistant Secretary is entitled to "honorable mention" in General Lord's next Budget address as a member of his "2 per cent club." By digging down in his own pocket the Assistant Secretary of the Navy assisted General Lord in his campaign of pin-saving economy.

But this is not the only one of General Lord's economies which is being carried out at the personal expense of the Army and Navy. In his "epoch-making" speech, General Lord referred to the fact that the Navy now prints only 5,000 official Registers. This is not sufficient for the officers and enlisted men of the Navy, and many of them must purchase the books to help General Lord make his record of pin economy.

General Lord, however, neglected to mention the large reductions in the budget of the Army and Navy. Since the war the Army budget has not carried sufficient funds to maintain the quarters and barracks for the Army that is serving in the field. War constructed buildings have been deteriorating from year to year, until officers and their families are occupying quarters which previous to the war would scarcely be considered fit for mule stables. General Lord was never called upon to occupy such quarters as some of his brother officers are now living in, in order to carry out the "constructive economies" of the Bureau of the Budget. Incidentally, it might be remarked that Secretary of War Weeks, in his annual reports, has stated that this failure on the part of the Government to maintain the plant and equipment of the Army will eventually increase the cost of the establishment. A dollar spent now will go farther than ten in the future, when the buildings and plants must be entirely replaced.

General Lord's reference to the reduction in the Navy's budget no doubt referred to the cut that was made in the allowances for the completion of ships under construction. This is really an interference with the plans of the Navy Department to bring the fleet up to the treaty strength. Eventually this money must be expended if the United States is to make any pretensions to maintaining a treaty Navy. The reduction does not amount to a real saving, but eventually may prove a real loss. The delay in building the gunboats for service in Chinese waters may possibly prove a disaster. At least, the missionaries in China would be safer if it were not for General Lord's "constructive economy" policy in dealing with the Navy's budget.

NAVY LINE AND STAFF

ALTHOUGH the bill for the equalization of promotion between the line and the staff of the Navy has not been submitted to him, the Secretary of the Navy has declared for the general principles of the bill. In discussing the subject, Secretary Wilbur said that the bill pending before Congress appears to be drawn up along the general lines that met with his approval. He stated that he might have objection to some of the provisions of the new bill as it has been prepared in the Department, but that he believes that an equitable system of adjusting the relations between promotions between the line and the staff would contribute to the efficiency of the Navy.

This will be real news to the Service, as there have been reports in circulation that the Secretary did not believe that any legislation on the subject was necessary or desirable. If there are not too many changes made in the bill before it reaches the Secretary he will approve it. In the event that the bill goes to Congress with the Secretary's approval, its advocates are confident that it will be passed at the next session.

A committee representing the line and the staff had two sessions during the week at which they went over the new draft of the bill, paragraph by paragraph, and made some changes in it that have been suggested by those who are interested in the measure. One was the extension of selection down to include the grade of lieutenant. In a general way, the provisions of the bill were modified so as to correspond with the Britten bill, relative to retirement for service in grade. It is recognized that if there is to be a general change in the laws affecting the line a corresponding amendment should be made for the Staff Corps.

RETIREMENT OF ADMIRAL ROBISON

BEFORE leaving for his vacation, President Coolidge indicated that he would not approve the application of Rear Adm. J. K. Robison, U.S.N., Engineer in Chief of the Navy, for retirement until he had consulted the attorneys for the Government in the oil reserve cases. Whether the President will confer with the attorneys before he returns to the White House after his vacation is not known at this time. It was announced that the President intends to take as complete a rest as possible at Swampscott during his stay there. As the President has not been inclined to give much consideration to Admiral Robison's claim for recognition, it is possible that the matter may not be finally settled until after the vacation period.

Admiral Robison's term as Engineer in Chief comes to a close on October 1 next, and he would not accept another term if it should be offered to him. If the President does not approve his application for retirement in the grade of rear admiral he will be automatically reduced to the grade of a captain when his present term expires.

In the meantime there is quite an animated discussion in the Navy Department as to Admiral Robison's probable successor as Chief of the Bureau of Engineering. The Navy is divided into two schools of thought on the subject. One school is insisting that the administration of the Bureau of Engineering should be placed in the hands of an officer who has been specially selected for engineering duty only. It is pointed out in this connection that other bureaus are being controlled by specialists in their branch. Engineering, it is argued, is becoming more technical year by year, and requires officers who are highly trained in engineering. A number of officers who have been on engineering duty have become eminent in the profession, as they have devoted a greater part of their time to this work. In this connection Comdr. Samuel M. Robison, the head of the Division of Designs in the Bureau of Engineering, is being mentioned. He is an expert on electrical and Diesel machinery. Capt. Paul B. Dungan, at present in charge of the Engineering Experiment Station at Annapolis, is also being mentioned as one specially qualified in this respect.

The other school of thought on the subject insist that while the Chief of the Bureau of Engineering should be one who is specially interested in engineering, that he should also be a line officer with a viewpoint of the fleet. They would select an officer who would bring to the experts in the bureau a wide knowledge of the operation of the fleet and the requirements of the force afloat. They insist that the Chief of the Bureau of Engineering should be an officer with a broad point of view instead of a specialist. Capt. John Halligan, Jr., at present commander of the Detroit, is given as a type of officer who should be assigned to the Bureau of Engineering. On account of his attitude in opposition to the transfer of the oil reserve to the Department of the Interior, it is believed that he will prove a very strong candidate for the place. It would not be surprising if President Coolidge would insist upon his appointment on account of the political effect that his selection would have on the situation in Congress.

STREET NAMED FOR NAVY MAN

AS the result of the action of Adm. E. R. Stitt, Surgeon General of the Navy, the street in front of the dispensary at the Training Station, San Diego, Calif., will be known as Welty Terrace. It is named after the late Frank George Welty, pharmacist's mate, who distinguished himself in the World War. Mrs. Emile S. Welty, 1130 Bleaker Street, Utica, N. Y., mother of the deceased, received a letter from Admiral Stitt, lauding her son's services.

CHEMICAL WARFARE TRAINING

MAJ. GEN. CHARLES P. SUMMERALL, U.S.A., commanding the 2d Corps Area, in connection with the Chemical Warfare Training, has issued these instructions:

"Chemical munitions should be used in actual maneuvers and tactical exercises. Whenever smoke concealment can be used to tactical advantage it should be employed. Wherever units are forced to advance over open ground to assault positions they should be concealed by smoke. Attacks on assumed machine-gun nests should be assisted by the use of the W. P. grenades. Flanking movements and attacks on assumed isolated positions should also employ candles and grenades where required. The limited allowance of this material prohibits its employment for mere demonstrations except in exceptional circumstances."

DIVISIONS AND ARMY CORPS

3D DIVISION

THE interesting program for the reunion of the 3d Division at St. Louis, July 15 to 18, inclusive, in brief includes the following:

There will be no reunion meetings on July 15, the opening date. The entire day will be devoted to the registration of veterans as fast as they arrive at reunion headquarters in the Hotel Statler. At 8 p. m. on this date all the veterans will attend the Municipal Opera in Forest Park. There will be light opera, something on the order of Gilbert and Sullivan compositions, or Robin Hood, or the Bohemian Girl.

The formal opening of the reunion convention is scheduled to take place at the Statler Hotel, Thursday, July 16. Then at 2 p. m. of the same day there will be a sight-seeing trip for the veterans to points of interest in and around St. Louis. The final event on the program for this day will be a grand rally of the veterans at beautiful Forest Park Highlands at 8 p. m.

The reunion on the following day, July 16, will provide for a business meeting at 9 a. m. and a street parade of the veterans, in O.D. shirts and overseas caps, with the 6th Infantry Band in the line of march, and various units of local patriotic societies.

Beginning at 6 p. m. there will be regimental dinners and the opportunity for visiting veterans to meet their buddies at the banquet board and talk over old times, and then the day's activities will end with a smoker, beginning at 9 p. m., in the Chamber of Commerce, where the veterans will be the guests of the city's big business men.

The closing day, Saturday, July 18, will be marked by the election of officers to preside over the 3d Division Society for the ensuing year at 9 a. m., and then the delegates will hie to Jefferson Barracks, U. S. Army post, on the outskirts of St. Louis, in command of Col. David Stone, where they will join in a parade with the Regular Army soldiers, in uniform, and pass in review, and then have an old-time Army feed, and later memorial services over the grave of a fallen 3d Division comrade.

32D DIVISION

THE 126th Infantry, 32d Division, will hold its 1925 regimental reunion in Kalamazoo, Mich., July 3 to 5, inclusive, and will bring to that city, it is expected, between 3,500 and 5,000 veterans and their families.

Plans for the reunion have been completed by the 126th Infantry of Kalamazoo, composed of veterans of the famed "Les Terribles." This association and the city of Kalamazoo will be host to the visitors, and extensive plans are being made for an elaborate program of entertainment. The 126th Infantry was under command of Col. Joseph B. Westledge of Kalamazoo, who sacrificed his life during the World War.

Otto C. Steinberger, president of the Kalamazoo association, John P. DeBoer, secretary, and Edward Hudson, treasurer, together with every member of the veterans' organization, are working to complete plans for the reunion and to obtain funds. The meeting in July will be the biggest reunion of veterans ever held in Kalamazoo.

2D CAVALRY DIVISION

IN speaking of the good work of the officers and men of the 10th Cavalry, U.S.A., from Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., in putting out the costly fires which had been sweeping the national forests in that section, an editorial in a local paper of recent date said in part:

"A man does not 'join up' with the Army to fight forest fires; there's no martial appeal to that kind of work—terrible heat, showers of embers, parched tongues, scorched hands, scarcity of water. There is not even the glory of the casualty list if life is lost. But it is in the line of duty, and the soldier answers the call to fight enemy of the forests just as readily as he answers the call to the firing line. He does the same where the enemy is fire, flood or pestilence. He is always on guard."

EXAM. IN SEPT. FOR ARMY MED. CORPS VACANCIES

TO determine the eligibility of physicians for appointment as first lieutenants in the Medical Corps, Regular Army, the War Department announced this week that an examination will be held at the various posts and stations throughout the country from September 14 to 18, 1925. Simultaneously with this statement it was also announced that an examination will also be conducted for appointment as second lieutenants in the Medical Administrative Corps of the Regular Establishment from September 14 to 20, 1925, at the various stations.

There were 58 vacancies in the Medical Corps of the Regular Army on June 19, but between now and July 31 two more medical officers will sever their connection with the military service, making in all a total of 60 vacancies for this corps. In order to be eligible for appointment applicants must be at the time of their commission between the ages of 23 and 32 years, they must hold a diploma of an accepted medical school vested with the authority to confer the degree of doctor of medicine upon its graduates, must have completed 12 months of clinical training since their graduation in an accredited hospital, and meet the required physical standards of the military service.

After the successful candidates are appointed they will undergo a course of instruction for about a year at the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., and the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Those taking the Medical Administrative Corps examination must have two years of service to their credit and be at the present time an enlisted man of the Medical Department. There is one vacancy in this corps at present.

Further information and applications for permission to take these examinations can be secured from The Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, D. C., or from the nearest military station.

Of the seven applicants who took the examination for appointment as first lieutenant to the Medical Corps of the Regular Army on May 4, 1925, two qualified. They are Don Wilbur McLean, of Detroit, Mich., and Sterling Bockoven, of Cresco, Iowa.

EXAMINATION U.S.M.C. OFFICERS

A RECENT digest from the Navy Department states that in accordance with the provisions of the act approved March 4, 1925, it will be necessary for officers of the U.S.M.C. who had been examined prior to March 4, 1925, in advance of becoming due for promotion and found qualified under the old law, but had not become due for promotion on March 4, 1925, to be reexamined in accordance with the provisions of Section 7 of the act approved on that date. This applies in all cases, regardless of whether or not the proceedings have been approved by the authority convening the examining board, and regardless of whether or not such officers had become due for promotion prior to March 4, 1925, but owing to the exigencies of the Service had not been examined for promotion, or, if examined for promotion, had not been promoted prior to that date. Consideration of the provisions of the aforesaid act relative to the appointment of heads of departments discloses that it applies only to vacancies occurring after March 4, 1925. Accordingly, vacancies which occurred prior to that date and remain unfilled may be filled in accordance with the provisions of the law relative thereto in force prior to March 4, 1925.

CELEBRATE Q.M.C. FOUNDING

THE Quartermaster Corps detachment at Ft. Screven, Ga., celebrated the 150th anniversary of the founding of the corps on June 16. The afternoon was devoted to sports. A dinner and theater party at Savannah, Ga., featured the evening. Capt. W. L. Clemenson, U.S.A., commanding officer at Ft. Screven, was the guest of honor at the dinner.

THE U. S. INFANTRY

RECOMMENDATIONS have been made by the Chief of Infantry to the War Department that communication equipment prescribed for battalions be issued to the regimental headquarters companies in addition to the normal equipment of those companies. Authority for this was given by the War Department in April, 1924, but it appears that some units have not received this equipment.

The War Department has declared obsolete the alidade projector used in machine gun and howitzer companies. This instrument will probably be replaced by the steel projector recently tested by the Infantry Board.

Recommendation has been made to the War Department that Infantry howitzer organizations be authorized to convert machine-gun carts into carts for carrying Stokes mortar equipment and ammunition. Plans and specifications for this work were recently submitted to the department. It is believed that the mechanical work can be performed by the enlisted men of the organizations.

The Chief of Infantry has received a report of test made by the Infantry Board of a waterproof range card designed by Maj. A. B. Hitchcock, Inf., who is on duty at Ft. Benning, Ga. It is believed that a card made from xylonite or similar material can be developed for use with Stokes mortars and 37-mm. guns.

THE 120th Infantry, North Carolina National Guard, went into camp at Camp Glenn, N. C., on July 5, to remain until July 19. This camp will be the culmination of the regimental commander's training program for the year. The Infantry Company in Attack. All armory training since last year's camp has mainly been directed to that end.

QUARTERMASTER CORPS

AS the representative of Maj. Gen. A. W. Brewster, U.S.A., commanding 1st Corps Area, Colonel Horton went to New Haven, Conn., on May 18 and participated in the ceremonies held by the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the assembling of that organization in New Haven preliminary to their marching to Cambridge, Mass., to join the Continental Army under General Washington.

This celebration was a most interesting affair. It began with a luncheon at the Hotel Garde, a parade to the Center Church at New Haven Green where exercises were held commemorative of the organization, and a parade to the city hall, where the ceremonies of demanding the keys to the powder house were repeated. This ceremony is enacted every year. Afterward there was a parade followed by a review on the green. In the evening there was a banquet and ball.

In addition to the 2d Company of Governor's Foot Guard of New Haven, there were present the 1st Company, Governor's Foot Guard, of Medford; the Putnam Phalanx, of Connecticut; Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and Fusiliers, of Boston; Varnum Continentals, of Rhode Island; Old Guard and Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of New York; and the Richmond Blues, of Virginia. In all, there were about 950 men in distinctive Colonial uniforms.

THE British Naval and Military Veterans' Association of Massachusetts have for several years assembled at Lexington on Sunday prior to Memorial Day, decorated the graves and monuments of the American soldiers there, proceeded to Bedford, Mass., and then to Concord, Mass., where they have decorated the American graves in those towns. At Concord Bridge they decorated the graves of the British killed at the fight at Concord, April 19, 1775.

This year the ceremonies were held on May 24. Colonel Horton represented the Regular Army and selected as his associates Lt. Col. Harry G. Chase, State Quartermaster of Massachusetts, representing the National Guard, and Maj. Howard Emerson, representing the Organized Reserves.

In the ceremonies this year the British veterans conferred upon Colonel Horton honorary membership in their organization. This was done with considerable ceremony in front of the troops at Bedford, Mass., during the exercises May 24.

This year, in addition to placing flowers upon the graves of the British veterans, each placed a silk American flag thereon and an American bugler, Sgt. William Purcell, sounded taps. General Brewster also placed a personal wreath on the graves of the British dead.

SERVICE SCHOOLS AND ACADEMIES

ARMY MEDICAL SCHOOL

CARLISLE BARRACKS, PA.

THE next class to undergo instruction at the Medical Field Service School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., will be composed of National Guard and Reserve officers of the Medical Department and is scheduled to begin September 1, 1925, to continue for six weeks.

In the interim the Medical Department, R.O.T.C. camp will be in operation for six weeks beginning June 13, and on July 5 a camp for Reserve officers, Medical Department, last two weeks will be conducted there concurrently with the R.O.T.C. camp. Personnel from the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th Corps Areas only will undergo training during this Summer at Carlisle.

AIR SERVICE TECH. SCHOOL

CHANUTE FIELD, ILL.

THE following student officers graduated from the course for Regular Army officers, Department of Photography, June 19: 1st Lt. Charles Backes, Inf.; 2d Lts. Herbert K. Baisley, James M. Fitzmaurice, Joseph H. Hicks, Thomas M. Lowe, Stewart W. Towle, Jr., John W. Warren, John M. Weikert and Robert B. Williams, A.S.

THE Department of Mechanics on June 19 graduated the following number of enlisted students, U. S. Army Air Service: Airplane mechanics, 12; auto mechanics, 6; engine mechanics, 12; machinists, 6.

FIRST LT. IVAN L. PROCTOR, A.S., Assistant Director, Department of Mechanics, and a civilian instructor of that department, returned June 14 from an intensive course of instruction in tubular steel welding at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio.

BEGINNING October 15, the Department of Mechanics, Air Service Technical School, will establish two new courses for commissioned personnel, namely, "Airplane Maintenance Engineering" and "Aircraft Armament." The first course covers the repair, inspection and upkeep of airplanes, airplane engines and auxiliary appliances. The duration of the course is 24 weeks. The second covers the maintenance, repair and inspection of aircraft armament, and lasts 20 weeks.

L. T. H. G. B. DEKRUUFF VAN DORSEN, Dutch Air Force, student, parachute course, safely accomplished a live parachute jump from 2,000 feet on June 8. Lieutenant Van Dorssen is pursuing a special course of instruction in the Air Service Technical School and in connection therewith is investigating the practical qualities of the present type U. S. Air Service parachute as a factor of safety with a view to its adoption by his Government.

The demonstration of June 8 and previous expositions thoroughly satisfied him of its merits. It might be mentioned that recent tests made by British and Canadian flyers at the school were so satisfactory.

ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT

A PROGRAM to determine the radius of effectiveness of the 3-inch shell against airplanes has recently been held at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., witnessed by representatives of the Coast Artillery, Ordnance Department, Air Service and the Navy Department. These tests tended to show that hypothetical targets used in computing hits is correct.

DEVELOPMENT of a new design firing pin for the Semple plunger of the type AE fuze has been unsuccessful so far, and instructions have been sent to Picatinny Arsenal to complete the 200 type AE fuzes, using the old design Semple plunger firing pin.

This same difficulty is being encountered with the Semple plunger for the Mark X fuze and Picatinny has been authorized to proceed with the development of an enlarged Semple plunger for this fuze.

PICATINNY Arsenal has prepared a design of supersensitive fuze for the 37-mm. 2,000 and 3,000 f.s. A.A. guns, which appears to be satisfactory. An experimental test lot will be manufactured.

ABOVE scraping device for removing copper from the bores of 3-inch A.A. guns has been developed at the Aberdeen Proving Ground. A number of these have been ordered manufactured. They will be sent to the Service for test.

that the Royal Air Forces of England and Canada have adopted this parachute.

Incidentally, Lieutenant Van Dorssen is the largest man to ever leap from the cockpit of an airplane, voluntarily using a parachute. He weighs 220 pounds, is 6 feet 7 inches in height, and 30 years of age.

Lt. T. P. Smith, parachute officer, together with the chief instructor of the course, made live jumps from the same height immediately following Lieutenant Van Dorssen's accomplishment.

ARMY MEDICAL CORPS

IN a review of the current statistics for United States troops in all countries for the five weeks ending March 28, 1925, Maj. Gen. Merritt W. Ireland, Surgeon General of the Army, declared that the admission rates for all causes and for disease for the Army were lower than the corresponding rates in February, 1925, and also much lower than for March, 1924.

The highest admission rates, both for disease and for all causes, were for the troops in China, the second highest for all causes for the troops in Panama, and for disease for the troops in the United States. The lowest admission rates for all causes and for disease were for the troops in Hawaii.

The high admission rate for the troops in China was largely due to the excessive rate for common respiratory diseases (393.58) and venereal diseases (174.93). The rates for primary pneumonia, measles and dysentery were also above those for the troops in other countries, since in each case they were based upon from one to four cases they are of little if any significance.

For venereal disease the highest rate was, as stated, in China and the second highest in Panama, third in the Philippine Islands, and fourth in the United States, with the lowest in Hawaii. For these diseases the rates in the United States and Panama were higher than for February, but in the other countries they were lower.

THE NATIONAL GUARD

APPROVAL has been given by the War Department for the coat of arms for the 101st Signal Battalion, New York National Guard, and that of the 112th Field Artillery, New Jersey National Guard. The coat of arms for the 101st Signal Battalion is as follows:

Shield: Tenne, a pairle reversed argent, between in dexter chief a lion rampant, in sinister chief a fleur-de-lys and in base a mullet, all or.

Crest: That for the regiments of the New York National Guard. On a wreath of the colors (argent and tenne) the full-rigged ship Half-Moon proper.

Motto: Pro Patria et Unitas (For Country and Unity).

Following is the description of the shield, crest and motto of the 112th Field Artillery, New Jersey National Guard:

Shield: Gules, on a bend or two gatlins guns on field mounts fessways sable, between in sinister chief a fleur-de-lys and in dexter base a giant cactus both of the second (or).

Crest: That for the regiments of the New Jersey National Guard: On a wreath of the colors (or and gules) a lion's head erased or collared four fusils gules.

Motto: A Outrance (to the Utmost).

THE C. M. T. C.

THE decision of the War Department that at all Citizens' Military Training Camps this Summer "mass athletics" will be the physical training program, rather than competitive exhibitions between teams of experts, will undoubtedly be to the great physical benefit of all concerned. The aim will be to develop the many rather than the few.

The period devoted to athletic and physical exercises will surely be an important feature of every training camp. There will be no standing on the sidelines or watching from the bleachers. On the contrary, it will be to develop a number of good athletic leaders instead of a few stars, so that the young men may return to their homes or schools with sufficient knowledge to introduce new mass athletic games to their mates. This will result in more players and fewer of the cheering section.

The physical development to be derived from a Summer's course of training at a C.M.T. Camp in itself would make the course worth while to young men coming from the office, the store, the factory and the school.

Physical tests for the average young man, prepared by the National Amateur Federation, will be applied to every trainee, although this feature will not be compulsory.

By the use of these tests in all the C.M.T. Camps this Summer a national yardstick will be applied for measuring the relative physical standards of young men in various parts of the country. The fundamental purpose of the test is, however, to raise the physical standard of the youth of the country.

COL. NOBLE B. JUDAH, FA-Res, civilian aid to the Secretary of War, announces that De Paul University of Chicago is the first educational institution in the 6th Corps Area to offer a scholarship in law, the arts or business as a reward for the best all-around man in the C.M.T.C. at Camp Custer in July.

The De Paul University award was made in a letter from Rev. Thomas F. Levan, the president, stating: "While war is horrible and barbaric, reasonable preparedness is one of the best ways of preventing it entirely or shortening its duration. A nation that deserves the name must be ready to defend itself from unjust aggression." It is interesting to know that qualifications specially stressed for winners of the award will be physical health, intelligence and character as revealed while at camp.

THE R. O. T. C.

CHICAGO'S reserve line of defense in emergency—6,000 high-school boys in the uniform of the R.O.T.C., passed in review before Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale, commanding the 6th Corps Area, recently, with such efficiency that General Hale observed they were in shape to take an effective part in any wartime organization.

Maj. F. L. Beals, Ret., commander of the city R.O.T.C. came in for high praise at the splendid showing made by the corps. The result of competitive drills was: Senn High School, winner of Class A regular company contest; Parker High, Class B; picked company, Morgan Park; prize-winning band, Lindblom High School. Among those temporarily serving as a staff for General Hale were Maj. Gen. George H. Harris, Ret., Brig. Gen. William Nicholson, Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, I.N.G., Col. Edward B. Ellicot, Res., the latter being the new president of the Board of Education.

NAVY OARSMEN SWEEP HUDSON IN CLASSIC

Gain National Rowing Title By Defeating Pick Of College Crews

WASHINGTON IS SECOND

SWEEPING to a national intercollegiate rowing title, the Blue and Gold tipped oars of the Navy varsity shell again carried the Naval Academy to victory in the historic Poughkeepsie Regatta on the Hudson June 22. The Midshipmen, rowing over the restored 4-mile course, beat the University of Washington Huskies by three-fourths of a length in a thrilling race.

The Navy crew of 1925 also smashed the 4-mile time record, being clocked at 19.24 4-5. Coached by Dick Glendon, Jr., they proved themselves worthy of comparison with the Navy's Olympic World Champion crew of 1920.

NAVY VERSUS WASHINGTON

Although there were seven entries in the blue-ribbon varsity event, the contest for first place soon narrowed down to the Navy and Washington. Following the leaders, the other crews finished in the order named: Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia. Wisconsin was nine lengths behind Washington.

The water was in excellent condition when the seven varsity shells lined up for the start. Just after Referee Julian Curtiss sent the seven off to a perfect start the Navy coxswain raised his hand, signaling distress. The shells were recalled, and it was found that one of the Midshipmen had jumped his slide.

Six minutes later the shells were sent off again and the race was on. For the first few minutes the contestants were on even terms, and then the Navy took the lead. Penn crept up right behind the Midshipmen, while Cornell, Columbia, Washington, Syracuse and Wisconsin followed close behind. The Navy gradually drew away to a quarter length lead.

Soon the Washington crew, rowing at a beat of 32, pulled into second place and battled with Navy for the lead. The Navy was stroking along at 33, and at the mile and a half mark the Navy and Washington were on practically even terms. First the Huskies from the Northwest would forge ahead a few feet. Then the Midshipmen from the Severn would pull their way into a scant lead.

The lead fluctuated up to the 2-mile mark. At the 2½-mile mark the Navy slowly gained a half a length lead. At the railroad bridge, where the real test came, the Midshipmen shot up the pace to 38 and then to 39, a challenge to Washington, open water showing between the shells.

The Huskies did not meet the challenge, holding their spurt for the last half mile. This, in the opinion of racing experts, decided the race. At the 3½-mile mark the Huskies pulled their hearts out and managed to close the open water between their shell and the Navy. It was too late.

The Midshipmen, pulling smoothly, maintained a three-quarter-length lead and shot across the finish line in triumph. It was the first time in three years that any crew had lowered the colors of the University of Washington.

It was the third win for a Navy crew in the Poughkeepsie Regatta, the Naval Academy varsity eights having swept to victory in 1921 and 1922.

Crew Captain Shieke, Bell, King and Chillingworth are lost to the crew by graduation. They will join their ships while the rest of the crew go to the west coast to join the Midshipmen Practise Squadron.

The first three crews:

Navy Varsity.—Bow, King; No. 2, Chillingworth; No. 3, W. C. Eddy; No. 4, Bell; No. 5, Shieke; No. 6, Silvester; No. 7, Watson; stroke, D. T. Eddy; coxswain, Seadring.

Washington Varsity.—Bow, Deutton; No. 2, Luft; No. 3, Hart; No. 4, Quast; No. 5, Gondon; No. 6, Walling; No. 7, Sanford; stroke, Ulbricksen; coxswain, Wuthenow.

Wisconsin Varsity.—Bow, Gerhardt; No. 2, Sly; No. 3, Rhode; No. 4, McCarter; No. 5, Grunitz; No. 6, Burrus; No. 7, Benson; stroke, Techmeyer; coxswain, Coulter.

62D CAVALRY DIV. SPORTS

A DOG, pony and horse show was held on the drill field of the 110th Field Artillery at Pikesville for the benefit of the Animal Refuge. In the horse show a saddle class for Reserve officers was held and the following members of the 62d showed:

Capt. Ellicott, 402d Eng. Bn., on "Cap";

Capt. Lambert, 402d Eng. Bn., on "Little Bit"; Chaplain Stick, 462d F.A. Bn., on "P. K."; Lieutenant Blondell, Hdq. 153d Brigade, on "Sox"; Lieut. Meyer, 153d M.G. Sqdn., on "Elsie Becker"; and Lieutenant Munday, 306th Cav., on "Charcot." The horses were shown at the walk, trot, and gallop on both hands, and the following won the ribbons: Lieutenant Meyer, blue; Captain Ellicott, red; Lieutenant Blondell, yellow.

A class for polo ponies had several 62d entries. Maj. Blunt on his gelding "Pip Squeal," Captain Lambert on "Little Bit," Lieutenant Blondell on "Sox," Lieutenant Crowe on "Grand Jury" and "Gandora," Lieutenant Meyer on "Elsie Becker," Lieutenant Munday on "Charcot," and Lieutenant Reilly on his own mare, "Harford Girl." Major Blunt took the blue, a civilian took the red, and Lieutenant Crowe on "Gandora" took the yellow. The ponies were shown through two rows of stakes set 20 feet apart; also several other tests of the ponies' playability were required. Captain Lambert and Lieutenant Munday both put up very creditable performances.

OHIO N.G. ATHLETICS

AN offer by Chaplain William P. O'Connor, of Cincinnati, to provide a cup for athletic competition in the Ohio National Guard has paved the way to an annual "Derby," which in all probability will be held at Camp Perry.

The proposed meet has been sanctioned by Maj. Gen. B. W. Hough and Adj. Gen. F. D. Henderson, and Chaplain O'Connor's offer has been accepted. The O'Connor cup will probably be awarded the winner of the 220-yard dash, according to present indications, but other forms of competition on track and field, such as the broad jump, high jump, pole vault and hurdles, may be on the program. Later highly specialized events, such as the hammer throw, javelin throw, shotput and others, will probably be added.

The tentative draft of plans for the "Derby" includes the holding of eliminations at camp, each organization setting aside a field day for this purpose. The best talent will thus be picked to represent their organizations at the cup matches, or "Derby," during the last week of the last camp.

It is anticipated that other trophies in addition to the O'Connor cup will be provided. Selection of judges, starters, timekeepers and other officials will soon be made. With a field of more than 8,000, and with practically every school, college and university famous for its athletic output represented in the O.N.G., there should be keen rivalry among Guardsmen.

THE Ohio National Guard was well represented at the sixth annual horse show given June 6 by the Columbus Riding Club. Entering its horses in all the military classes and several others, Troop B, 10th Cavalry, won a lion's share of the prizes. In the enlisted men's mounts class the following horses of the troop won laurels: Pete, first; Socks, second; Ned, third. In the military jumps the troop made a clean sweep, Bobbie, Pat and Billie taking first, second and third, respectively.

The officers' mounts class was won by Billy Ireland, Capt. Eli Long up, with Bobbie, Capt. R. W. Knauss up, a close second. Fuzz, the private mount of Pvt. C. P. Robbins, made a good showing in the lightweight polo and championship classes, receiving second prizes in both. Billie also took a third in the lightweight hunters class, competing with Florian, owned by W. T. Zinn, and Topit, owned by Roy T. Smith. The 134th Field Artillery also had horses entered in a number of the events. Maj. Ralph Perkins, commanding the 1st Squadron, 107th Cavalry, judged the military, jumping and polo classes. Hundreds of Guardsmen showed their interest in good horsemanship by attending the show.

FORT MYER LOSES

THE 16th Field Artillery polo four were defeated by the Bryn Mawr horsemen in the deciding match of the Southeastern Circuit Tourney at Philadelphia on June 17 by a score of 9-8, the contest going into an extra period. The defeat eliminated the Ft. Myer four from the 12-goal competition in September. The Army four played splendidly and the teams were evenly matched. The 16th F.A. line-up was: Lieutenant Benson, No. 1; Lieutenant Kitts, No. 2; Capt. J. S. Tate, No. 3; and Major Hoyle, back.

U.S. POLO TEAM KEEPS INT. MILITARY TITLE

Defeat British Army Four In England By Brilliant Playing

TWO STRAIGHT VICTORIES

SUCCESSFULLY defending the international military polo championship, the U. S. Army four defeated the British Army horsemen in two consecutive games at the Hurlingham Club, England, on June 20 and June 24, winning the initial contest 8-4 and the deciding game 6-4.

The U. S. Army poloists set a swift pace throughout the first game, Major Wilson and Captain Rodes scoring four goals apiece. For the British W. S. McCreery starred, tallying three goals. Capt. R. L. McCreery made one.

The U. S. team scored two goals in the first chukker, three in the second and one each in the fourth, fifth and seventh. The English scored one in the opening chukker and one each in the third, fifth and seventh.

BRITISH SCORE FIRST

The British made a good start, McCreery's goal being a perfect shot from nearly midfield. Captain Rodes, U.S.A., hit his stride late in the period and made two goals in rapid succession.

Led by Maj. Lewis A. Beard in the second chukker, the U. S. Army four launched an attack that brought them three more points. In the third period they were unable to score, but three shots hit the goal posts. Major Wilson was hurled from his horse at the boards in the fourth chukker and the game was suspended for two minutes while he recovered and returned to continue his brilliant work.

Major Beard, for the U. S. team, and Major Boles failed to make free hits for safety.

The initial match drew a huge throng of spectators, including King George, Queen Mary and Ambassador and Mrs. Alanson Houghton.

In the second match the United States scored first, Captain Gerhardt making the tally, and before the period ended the count stood U. S. 2, England 0.

The first British score was made in the second chukker, when W. S. McCreery, who starred for his team in the first match, made a goal.

In the third chukker the British team tied the score at 2 goals all, but Capt. Peter P. Rodes soon added another for America, making the count 3 to 2. McCreery again tied the score during the third period, each team having made 3 goals.

The United States scored a goal in the fourth chukker and another in the fifth. The lineup follows:

United States—No. 1, Maj. A. H. Wilson; No. 2, Capt. Charles H. Gerhardt; No. 3, Capt. Peter P. Rodes; and Maj. Louis A. Beard, back.

Great Britain—No. 1, Capt. R. L. McCreery; No. 2, W. S. McCreery; No. 3, Capt. J. P. Denning; and Maj. D. C. Boles, back.

11TH INF. POLO TEAM MAKES SPLENDID RECORD

THE 11th Infantry polo four have made an enviable record during the present season. The hard-hitting horsemen from Ft. Harrison have scored four victories to date piling up a total of 30 goals to their opponents' 10.

The 3d Field Artillery was defeated by the Infantrymen on May 24 by a score of 9-2 in a well-played game. This was the initial contest of the 11th Infantry in the Camp Knox summer polo tournament.

On May 31 the 11th Infantry took the 10th Infantry into camp by a tally of 5-2. Playing the 3d Field Artillery again on June 7 the Doughboys scored another victory by a count of 9-1.

The 138th Field Artillery was beaten 7-5 by the Fort Harrison four on June 14. This contest was played outside of the National Polo Association handicap rules. The 138th Field Artillery was allowed a handicap of four goals.

In recognition of the unbroken string of victories hung up by the team, the Reserve officers on duty with the 11th Infantry presented to them a silver loving cup.

The line-ups for the games played under the Polo Association rules were as follows:

Eleventh Infantry—Lieutenant Brimmer, No. 1; Captain Foy, No. 2; Lieutenant Gould, No. 3; and Lieutenant Bing and Major Blumel alternating at No. 4.

Tenth Infantry—Captain Halloran, No. 1; Lieutenant Fox and Lieutenant Bender, No. 2; Lieutenant Yates, No. 3; and Captain Byerly, No. 4.

Third Field Artillery—Lieutenant Hardin, No. 1; Lieutenant Haring, No. 2; Captain McCreary, No. 3; and Lieutenant Thornton and Lieutenant Conrey, No. 4.

15TH INF. WINS BIG INT. TRACK MEET IN CHINA

THE annual international track meet, held at the French Arsenal, Tientsin, China, on May 17, 1925, resulted in a decisive victory for the 15th Infantry team. Only in two events, the 5,000-meter race and the shot put, did American athletes fail to score. The meet was attended by representatives from the French, British and American Army forces, and the Tientsin Grammar School. The Japanese and Italians failed to enter the meet. The American athletes scored a total of 32 points, the French 25, the British 15, and the Tientsin Grammar School 12. The main event and the 15th Infantry's biggest triumph was its victory in the tug-of-war, which event has been won by the French for the past five years. Hunter, of the 15th Infantry, established a new American Army record here in the broad jump, with 20 feet 7 inches. The American athletes showed good form in the relay race and won the cup presented by Gen. Chang Hseuh-liang.

Results of the meet:

100 meters.—First, Hunter (15th Inf.), time 11 2-5 sec.; second, Roberts (Brit.); third, Thompson (15th Inf.); fourth, Fabre (Fr.). 5,000 meters.—First, Fitzsimmons (Brit.), time 17 min. 23 sec.; second, Howse (Brit.), third, Duran (Fr.); fourth, Salt (Brit.).

The following officers played on the Blues in the various games: Colonel Margetta, Majors Coulter and Thomas, Captains Richardson and Walsh, Lieutenant Jadwin.

THREE POLO TOURNEYS HELD AT FORT RILEY

THREE polo tournaments, handicap, consolation and open, were held at Ft. Riley in connection with the Cavalry School graduation exercises, from May 24 to June 7. The Cavalry School entered five teams, the Black and Gold, the Reds, the Blues, the Special Advanced Equitation Class and the Second Cavalry. Visiting teams were the Waconda Club from Des Moines, the 7th Corps Area from Ft. Omaha, a combined military and civilian team from Ft. Reno and Wichita, the 14th Cavalry from Ft. Des Moines and the 4th Cavalry from Ft. D. A. Russell. Some fast and very interesting polo was played.

In the first round of the handicap tournament the Wacondas defeated the Cavalry School Blues, the 7th Corps Area defeated Ft. Reno-Wichita by one goal, the Cavalry School Black and Gold defeated the Second Cavalry and the 14th Cavalry defeated the 4th Cavalry. In the second round the Wacondas defeated the 7th Corps Area, and the Cavalry School Black and Gold defeated the 14th Cavalry in an extra-period game. In the finals the Cavalry School Black and Gold team, composed of Major Lyman, Capt. C. C. Smith, Captain Davis and Captain Gay, defeated the Waconda Club, composed of Mr. Johnson, Mr. F. W. Hubbell, Mr. J. W. Hubbell and Mr. A. Meadows, by the score of 9 to 4.

In the first round of the consolation tournament the Cavalry School Reds defeated the Cavalry School Special Advanced Equitation Class and the Cavalry School Blues defeated the 4th Cavalry. In the second round the Cavalry School Blues defeated the Cavalry School Reds and Ft. Reno-Wichita defeated the 2d Cavalry in an extra-period game. In the finals Ft. Reno-Wichita, playing Mr. Vicker, Major Cullum, Major Weeks and Mr. Marshall, defeated the Cavalry School Blues, playing Major Davison, Captain Wharton, Captain Falk and Major Groninger, by the score of 7 to 6.

In the first round of the open tournament, the 2d Cavalry defeated the 14th Cavalry, the 7th Corps Area defeated the 4th Cavalry, the Waconda Club defeated Ft. Reno-Wichita by one goal, and the Cavalry School Black and Gold defeated the Cavalry School Reds. In the second round the 7th Corps Area defeated the 2d Cavalry and the Cavalry School Black and Gold defeated the Waconda Club. In the finals the Cavalry School Black and Gold, with Major Lyman, Capt. C. C. Smith, Maj. T. K. Brown and Captain Gay, defeated the 7th Corps Area, with Captain Brandeis, Captain Boyer, Captain Palmer and Mr. Smith, in a fast and exciting extra-period game, by the score of 6 to 5.

The tournaments were notable for the excellent playing of Mr. Meadows of the Waconda Club, Captain Boyer of the 7th Corps Area, Major Cullum of Ft. Reno, Captain Falk and Major Groninger of the Cavalry School Blues, and Captain Cunningham of the 2d Cavalry, and for the general all-around team work of the Cavalry School Black and Gold team, which won both the handicap and the open tournaments.

SECOND CAVALRY STAGES DRAGOONS' RACE MEET

THE 2d Cavalry held a 2d Dragoons' Race Meeting recently, Regimental Day, over the new race course which has been constructed west of Morris Hill at Ft. Riley, Kans.

The first event was a mannikin race, in which each contestant was required to start 100 yards in front of a fence, jump the fence, pick up a mannikin, made of burlap stuffed with straw, which was placed on the ground 100 yards on the far side of the fence, and return over the jump to the starting line. Private Gonzales, of Headquarters Troop, on "Dan," was the winner in 42 seconds; Corporal Kuhn, of Troop B, on "Bud," was second; and Private Zikoski, of Troop G, on "Mike," was third. The lance race, in which each contestant raced 150 yards, picked up a lance stuck in the ground and returned with it to the starting line, was won by Private Orr, of Troop B, on "Sonny," in 36 seconds, with Private Barker, of Troop F, on "Fox," second, and Sergeant Sexton, of the Service Troop, on "Chiggers," third. In the novelty race each rider was required to race 100 yards over a jump and about 400 yards to a second jump, where he dismounted, led over the jump, remounted and raced 50 yards to the finish. The winner was Sergeant Irey, of Headquarters Troop, on "Diamond," time 36 seconds; Private Steeb, Headquarters Troop, on "Beauty," was second; and Corporal Belmont, of

SERVICE VERSUS AGE RETIREMENT U.S. NAVY

CAPT. J. K. TAUSSIG, U.S.N., in the June, 1925, issue of the United States Naval Institute Proceedings, has an interesting article on "Length of Service Retirement versus Age in Grade Retirement," and this article has been reprinted from the proceedings. Captain Taussig has made a special study of the Navy promotion and retirement laws, and his opinions are therefore valuable and worthy of careful consideration.

After discussing the various phases of the laws and pointing out the various workings of the present law and its workings under the changes proposed, with the inequalities and advantages where there are any, Captain Taussig in conclusion says:

- (1) That the basic laws under which promotions and retirements are now being made are good, and the only changes necessary or desirable are adjustments similar to those recommended as a result of the exhaustive study previously made, and which are enumerated at the beginning of this paper.
- (2) Length-of-service retirement will introduce a number of complications that will be difficult of adjustment and which eventually will cause to a larger number of officers more unfairness and dissatisfaction than is at present caused, or in the future will be caused by the provisions of age-in-grade retirement.
- (3) That a change from age-in-grade retirement to length-of-service retirement will in no way benefit the Service as a whole, but on the other hand will have the opposite effect.

U.S.N. RADIO STATIONS LINK FRENCH ISLANDS

REGULAR communication with the French radio station at Papeete, Tahiti, for the exchange of commercial and Government business was established by the Navy Department on June 15, the Secretary of the Navy sending the first message over this circuit to the governor of Tahiti. In his message to His Excellency the Governor of Tahiti the Secretary of the United States Navy extended his greetings and spoke of this new epoch in communications between the French Island and the United States as a further testimony of the friendship existing between the American people and his government.

The French governor made suitable reply, in which he said that the opening of the wireless telegraph service is a new proof of the lasting friendship which binds our two nations.

Communication is carried on by means of the Navy's high-powered stations at San Francisco and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, via the Navy radio station at Tutuila in the Samoan Islands, which station has direct communication with the French radio station at Papeete. Heretofore, traffic for the French possessions in the Society Islands has been relayed through the British radio station at Apia, Samoa.

Commercial messages are transmitted from San Francisco to Papeete at a rate of 65 cents a word, a saving to the public of 10 cents per word, due to this direct communication between American Samoa and French Tahiti. Not only will the opening up of this communication service between Papeete and Tutuila effect a considerable saving between the exchange of commercial and Government business, but it will have an important bearing on the improvement of communications in the Pacific in general.

CIVILIAN DENTAL SERVICE FOR U.S. ARMY DEFINED

MAJ. GEN. M. W. Ireland, U.S.A., Surgeon General of the Army, has issued a circular relative to civilian dental service to Army personnel, which says in part:

The Government cannot provide, through the small personnel of the Dental Corps, and through the appropriations Medical and Hospital Department covering the employment of civilian medical attendance, for the dental care of members of the Military Establishment to the same extent that it provides for their general medical care.

At stations where officers of the Dental Corps are on duty, dental attendance is governed by the provisions of Circular 6, W.D., February 4, 1925, as supplemented by Circular Letter No. 9 (Dental No. 1), S.G.O., February 6, 1925. At other stations, dental attendance is governed by par. 1476½, AR 1913 (CAR 100, January 24, 1920), which will eventually in modified form be incorporated in AR 40-510 now being prepared, and by the provisions of Par. 1476, AR 1913 (par. 3b, AR 40-505), respecting the employment of specialists, which will eventually be superseded as to dental specialists by an express provision in AR 40-510.

Par. 1476½ above cited authorizes the employment, without the antecedent approval of The Surgeon General, of a civilian dentist, for emergency work only, for the relief of pain and acute septic conditions, or first-aid treatment only of a dental injury due to direct violence, required in a case arising at a station where no dental officer is on duty.

This does not mean that a civilian dentist should forthwith be employed in every such case. Doctors of medicine receive instruction in a general way in the treatment of dental and oral ailments as a part of their professional education; and medical officers have accordingly been expected and required, and are still expected and required at stations where there are no dental officers, to care for every patient reporting for the treatment of a dental or oral ailment, so far as the latter comes within the scope of their professional skill.

It should be within the professional skill of every medical officer, e. g., to lance an alveolar abscess, or to apply palliative measures for the relief of inflammations and septic conditions of the gums, or in simple cases to extract a tooth that is irreparable. If the simple measures available to the medical officer prove ineffectual, then the contingency will have arisen where the medical officer is warranted in recommending to his commanding officer the employment of a civilian dentist for the emergency treatment contemplated by par. 1476½. The dentist's account in such case should be accompanied by information showing why the medical officer could not render the emergency treatment required. The remarks in this subparagraph have of course no application to cases at a station where there is no medical officer.

The emergency work having been procured under par. 1476½ without antecedent approval of The Surgeon General, civilian dental service for the definitive treatment of dental or oral defects or conditions causing the pain or sepsis may not be employed at public expense without the approval of The Surgeon General.

It is not the Department's general policy to transfer dental patients from other stations. Aside from the insufficient number of dental officers to do all the dental work desired by military personnel, the funds available for the transportation of the latter would be overburdened by their habitual movement for such purpose.

ARMY BEATS NAVY FOR LEECH TENNIS TROPHY

THE Army racketeers defeated the Navy tennis team at Washington, D. C., in the second annual competition for the Leech Cup by 4 matches to 3 on June 20. The triumph was not as complete as that of last year, when the Army players were victorious in every match.

Capt. Robert Van Vliet, U.S.A., and Lt. R. M. Watt, U.S.N., were the outstanding stars of their respective services. The Army man won his single and doubles matches, being the main factor in scoring an Army victory by aiding Col. Waite C. Johnson to annex the final doubles match for the soldiers.

Lieutenant Watt won his singles match with Capt. T. D. Finley and, paired with Lt. V. S. Godfrey, triumphed in the doubles match over Maj. W. M. Robertson and Sgt. S. H. Buck.

In the deciding doubles match, the Army lost the first set 6-4, came from behind in the second set to score a 6-2 victory, and then annexed the third set, tallying four straight victories, 6-2.

The summary:
Singles.—Capt. R. C. Van Vliet (A.) defeated Lt. Roy Graham (N.), 6-1, 6-2; Capt. W. S. Anderson (N.) defeated Maj. W. M. Robertson (A.), 2-6, 6-3, 10-8; Lt. R. M. Watt (N.) defeated Capt. T. D. Finley (A.), 6-4, 6-3; Sgt. Shelby H. Buck (A.) defeated Capt. R. D. Gatewood (N.), 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.
Doubles.—Col. W. C. Johnson and Capt. R. C. Van Vliet (A.) defeated Capt. W. S. Anderson and Lt. Roy Graham (N.), 4-6, 6-2; Lt. R. M. Watt and Lt. V. S. Godfrey (N.) defeated Maj. W. M. Robertson and Sgt. Shelby H. Buck (A.), 6-8, 7-5, 9-7; Capt. T. D. Finley and Capt. Huntington Hills (A.) defeated Capt. R. D. Gatewood and Lt. S. S. Reynolds (N.), 6-4, 6-4.

ITALY TO PAY WAR DEBTS

THE official announcement from Premier Mussolini that Italy will begin negotiations for the funding of her war debts to the United States and Great Britain will win her the respect of the entire world. Italy has had a hard fight for rehabilitation and her countrymen, like some of the other powers in Europe, have a great load to bear, yet despite this she has no desire to evade her debts, and for her honesty of purpose she will find that the United States will be glad to make her reasonable terms upon which a final settlement will be possible at an early date.

Italy's action should be an incentive to France in the matter of payment of war debts. She is not wasting time in words and far-away promises, but has determined upon consistent action.

If France arranged to pay her debt to the United States as Great Britain has been doing, and which Italy now is arranging to do, it would lighten the burden of tax on the people of the United States, and might also induce Congress to make a more liberal and much-needed appropriation for our military and naval forces.

The Italian debt to the United States consists of principal, $1,647,869,197; interest accrued, $490,674,564; total indebtedness, $2,138,543,762. There have been payments on account of principal of $164,852 and payments on account of interest of $57,598,852. The small payment credited on account of principal is understood to represent a bookkeeping charge, while the rather substantial payment credited on account of interest is described as a payment made before the armistice on sums advanced under Liberty loans.

In the preliminary conversations which have already taken place between Ambassador di Martino, of Washington, and Secretaries Mellon and Kellogg, it is understood that certain basis for possible adjustment of the Italian debt have been discussed, and the American and Italian viewpoints developed. Italy may probably take the stand that she should receive more lenient terms than those granted to Great Britain, although not seeking cancellation of any part of the debt. Experts will probably arrive from Italy at an early date to assist Ambassador di Martino in the negotiations.

FOREIGN MILITARY AND NAVAL NEWS

FRANCE

HAVING evacuated considerable territory north of the Ouergha River in French Morocco, in order to relieve isolated small posts and consolidate forces for a better means of defense against the Riffs, the French have been strengthening their forces.

They have received a number of tanks and a new type of 75-mm. and Mountain guns, as well as aviation forces, and men of various arms of the service.

Observation balloons to be used along the front will, it is expected, play an important part in future operations of the French against the Moors. An offensive on a large scale by the French is planned, and will commence almost any day. A joint blockade of the Moroccan coast by French and Spanish warships to prevent arms and munitions reaching Abd-el-Krim, the warring leader of Moroccan tribesmen, became effective June 19.

There has been considerably wide criticism as to the alleged failure of the French air force to demonstrate its value in a decisive or telling action against the Riffs, especially as France has the largest air force in the world. It has been explained, however, in answer to these criticisms that there are no maps or landmarks of any kind that could be used by the French airmen in operating against the Riffs in the mountainous country, and that the conditions have made the much-desired operations impossible.

However, this may be, some critics are pointing to the wonderfully successful operations of the relatively small Royal Air Force against the Turks in a campaign under General Allenby in Palestine. This country was largely mountainous and extremely difficult, and yet it is pointed out that the Royal Air Force skillfully negotiated the difficulties and inflicted terrible damage and demoralization on the Turks.

M. Painleve, the French premier, who was at the front on June 14, among other things, said: "The Moors have only a few cannon, which they generally place on the highest mountain passes. These are promptly spotted by our aviators. They possess practically no machine guns. Nearly all the wounds of our soldiers result from rifle fire, in which the tribesmen excel."

From the above statement it would seem that the French force should soon be able to inflict a severe lesson on the Riffs.

GREAT BRITAIN

"MAJ. L. I. COOPER, of the British Army, in his military prize essay, makes a good appreciation of the next war," says the Army and Navy and Air Force Gazette of London. "When war broke out in 1914 the first consideration was to get command of the sea. The outbreak of the next war may find us faced with the necessity of obtaining command of the air before the navy can leave its harbors. This will entail a much enlarged independent air force to seek out and destroy the opposing air forces. In addition, we must be prepared for an air offensive against our large towns."

"During the last war the Germans brought over 21 airplanes and effected almost nothing. It may be argued that larger forces would not be more effective, since nothing multiplied equals nothing. This would be a bold assumption, for with a little luck much damage might have been done; we must also allow for the invention of some specially virulent gas which might be devastating in its effects. A strong force of aeroplanes for home defense will have to be ready to meet these dangers."

JAPAN

SOME recent unofficial data concerning the latest submarine of Japan, the I-53, is given by the naval correspondent of the London Daily News.

"While she is certainly the largest underwater craft hitherto completed for the Japanese Navy, her dimensions are not by any means phenomenal. When in surface trim she displaces 1,700 tons, and when running submerged she is probably from 600 to 700 tons heavier."

"Neither her speed nor her armament has been revealed, but she is understood to be good for 21 knots on the surface, and she will have a couple of medium quick-firers mounted on deck, besides a number of torpedo tubes. She may also be fitted to carry mines. She is reported to be capable of making a return voyage across the Pacific, which means that she has a radius of at least 8,000 miles."

"The I-53 is, therefore, a very powerful fighting craft, but she is quite eclipsed by submarines now in service or under construction for some other navies."

VOICE OF THE SERVICES

THE ARMY UNIFORMS

TO THE EDITOR:

LET us hope that the present discussion on the changes in the uniform will be given serious consideration by the General Staff before a final decision is reached. Most line officers, and practically all of those who say "active" service in the late war, realize that the present type of collar is not to be desired on the field uniform. Even on the dress uniform it is a question as to whether the standing collar has any edge on the present naval officers' uniform.

In time of war over 90 per cent of the officers will be taken from civil life, and the lapel (or civilian) collar is one which we all can wear with a creditable appearance. In addition to this, the lapel collar is one which can be fitted to any man with a certain amount of ease in tailoring, while the standing collar is one which presents many problems, except to a few first-class tailors. At best these few tailors can not make sufficient uniforms for the whole officer personnel, and in most cases it is a matter of buying a uniform locally.

A change at this time will create no more of a hardship on the Service than at any other time, and as for the Reserve officers, very few of them have a surplus of uniforms on hand. I would like to suggest that the War Department send each officer a questionnaire on proposed changes of the field uniform, and also include proposed styles of dress uniforms, in order that a voice from the officers may be obtained on their desires in both matters. The matter of a small additional cost of a dress uniform for the enlisted men will be a minor matter in comparison to the increased morale obtained therefrom. As an example, look at the Marine Corps.

FIELD ARTILLERY.

A SLOPPY UNIFORM

TO THE EDITOR:

IN regard to the present uniform of the Army, which is being so roundly criticized, I enclose some remarks from the Star and Herald of Panama, written by Mr. John K. Baxter, of the staff of that paper, which I think deserves to be printed in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL. The article in part is as follows:

"Kipling has something to say to the effect that—

"Making mock of uniforms that guard you while you sleep
Is cheaper than those uniforms, and they're starvation cheap."

"I was reminded yesterday of those lines when from a chair in front of John Hart's second-hand furniture emporium I observed the various groups of recruits from a transport at Balboa who had been turned loose for a few hours to stretch their legs on shore."

"Of all the wretched, sloppy, ill-fitting hand-me-downs, the tropical uniform issued to enlisted men in the United States Army is easily the worst. A self-respecting benchmarker would be ashamed to wear it. I do not know what the Army pays for these rags, but, whatever it is, it is too much, and if there is not graft in the contract, then all signs fail."

"In Panama we seldom see this issue uniform. Before coming to town the boys contrive somehow to buy themselves a few yards of decent cloth and have a tailor make them something they can wear without humiliation."

"They also buy dress shoes and puttees that can be wound about the ordinary human leg without making it look like a Chinese pagoda. At the very least, they have the issue suit of cheap cotton duck remade to fit them. Although this must cost them considerably more than a month's pay, they have too much pride to exhibit themselves in the clothes which Uncle Sam allows them."

WARRANT PAY U.S.A.

TO THE EDITOR:

NOW that the latest Congressional session is past, the warrant officer who scans the hearings held on the Curry bill (H. R. 7072), designed to remedy the injustice to the warrant corps under the provisions of the Joint Service Pay Act of 1922, may make a few observations.

The Curry bill was designed to remedy three particular points in the 1922 law: (a) to give the warrant officers one rate of pay ashore and afloat; (b) to permit warrant officers to count all service when commissioned; and (c) to restore to the commissioned warrant officer his previous parity in pay with ensign, lieutenant (junior grade), and lieutenant.

The representatives of the warrant corps advanced many valid reasons for their contentions in their arguments. In fact no fair-minded person could fail to see that a case was made on each point. It is interesting therefore to search the arguments presented by the departmental representatives who appeared against the warrant bill for direct answers to the warrant case.

This search will disclose no adequate response to the warrant contention that the base "top" pay of a warrant officer was increased only one-eighth of 1 per cent, while the pay in general was increased about 40 per cent. It discloses no reason for continuing two rates of pay for the warrant, ashore and at sea, when one rate of pay is the rule for all other officers. In fact, this point, by failure to contest, is tacitly admitted.

The second point, bearing on the loss of service to warrant officers when commissioned, is an injustice nowhere denied, but is admitted fully even by the department, as shown by the report of the Chief of Bureau of Navigation, the letter of the Secretary of the Navy to a Congressional committee, and the words of the department's own representatives.

This leaves the third point, the restoration of the previous pay parity with ensign, lieutenant (junior grade), and lieutenant, to be considered. Here, again, the essential justice of the warrant case has never been contested. No argument has ever been put forth tending to deny their previous parity in pay was denied and destroyed by the 1922 pay act.

The discriminations of the 1922 act bear most heavily on the warrant and commissioned warrant officers. These have long awaited word that the Navy Department would recommend adjustment of the pay act as indicated by the words of their representatives. This has not been done. Why? That question is in the minds of nearly 1,500 warrant and commissioned warrant officers. They are still hoping that the department will make adequate recommendations in their case. It should be realized that the continued failure to do so will unquestionably lower the morale of this class of officers and the thousands of the enlisted personnel to whom the warrant rank is the only practical goal.

WARRANT OFFICER.

ENLISTED SPECIALISTS

TO THE EDITOR:

I AM writing to enlist your help in a matter which, in my opinion, will be a great help to the enlisted personnel of the Army, who hold a grade of private first class and a specialist rating, as first, second and third class.

In the opinion of the writer, I think that these men should be given a relative rank of a noncommissioned officer, in view of the fact that these high specialist ratings are more beneficial to us than a grade of the 4th and 5th class, with the exception of a 3d class specialist and the 4th grade.

In many cases high specialist ratings are offered enlisted men in preference to noncommissioned grades, with a view of giving the most money to the deserving man.

I do not think that this would hamper the methods and regulations of the War Department, and it seems to me a consistent move could be started to bring the matter to the attention of the proper authorities in Washington.

SPECIALIST.

RETIREMENT OF N. C. O.

Master Sgt. Frank Remars, Inf., U.S.A. (D.O.L.), will be retired during the month of July after 30 years' service, and probably at Camp Glenn, N. C., during the annual camp at that place. Sergeant Remars (Captain Inf., U.S.A.) has been on duty as Sergeant Instructor for several years and has made several friends in the N.C.N.G. through his attention to duty and willingness to do his best at all times and be helpful. "The Sergeant is an example of a real soldier," says a bulletin from the A.G.O., "and his retirement is a fitting reward for such long and faithful service. The North Carolina National Guard wishes for him long years of happiness and 'good hunting' wherever he may be."

Master Sgt. Ole D. Hage, Serv. Co., 29th Inf., U.S.A., was retired at Ft. Benning, Ga., June 19, 1925, after more than 30 years' faithful service. He first enlisted in Company H, 3d Infantry, May 12, 1898, and subsequently reenlisted in the 3d, 21st and 7th Infantry, 22d Recruit Company, 29th Infantry and D.E.M.L., and 29th Infantry.

Col. M. C. Kerth, commanding the 29th Infantry, in G.O. 14, June 17, 1925, says:

"The commanding officer congratulates Master Sergeant Hage on so successful a termination of long and faithful service. The entire regiment extends to him their sincere regards and best wishes as he separates himself from further active service."

THE CAMPAIGN OF 1864 IN THE VALLEY OF VIRGINIA AND THE EXPEDITION TO LYNCHBURG, by Col. H. A. Du Pont. Published by the National American Society, New York, 1925. In this volume the writer has recorded his reminiscences of the campaign of 1864 in the valley of Virginia, as well as of the expedition to Lynchburg, which was a part or parcel of the same military operations. The author was a captain of Battery B, 5th Artillery, of the Regular Army, Chief of Artillery, Army of West Virginia, and was a brevet lieutenant colonel for distinguished services at the battle of Cedar Creek. He was also awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for the part he took in the same battle.

In his narrative, Colonel Du Pont does not pretend to give a complete account of the campaign in question, but it is rather a recital of the incidents and events which came under his personal observation, and various memoranda he jotted down many years ago, as well as a careful reperusal of the records, have served to replenish and conserve his recollections. A very clear account of battles which have been little described heretofore is given, and a frank discussion of the faulty dispositions made on either side in the battles is described. The book adds another link to the historical records. The price is $2.50, and can be procured from Baker Taylor Co., 55 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

The volume is one of 188 pages, printed in large type, and contains a very handy index, together with maps of various battlefields mentioned in the volume. The various chapters deal with the operations from New Year's Day to the battle of New Market. Other battles noted are those of Lynchburg, Winchester, Fishers Hill, and Cedar Creek.

OUR FLAG, published by Barrett A. Robison, 323 Division Avenue S., Grand Rapids, Mich. Price, 25 cents. This is a handy pamphlet of 52 pages which gives an authentic code of flag etiquette as drafted by the conference which met in Washington in 1924. The code is printed in the book together with diagrams illustrating the rules, as well as pictures of the home of Betsy Ross and Francis Scott Key. The book answers numerous questions as to the proper manner of displaying the flag on all occasions.

THE HODSOCK BALLISTIC TABLES FOR RIFLES, by F. W. Jones, O.B.E., with an introduction by Lt. Col. H. Mellish, C.B., V.D., and also an appendix on the Ballistic Pendulum by Col. Lord Cottesloe, V.D. Published by Edward Arnold & Co., London, England. The object of the author in writing this book and compiling the new tables has been to provide riflemen and sportsmen with means by which they will be able to solve their various shooting problems with greater facility and accuracy than has hitherto been possible, and he hopes that it will prove a useful companion to the various existing text books. Further, he thinks that it provides conclusive evidence of the very great value of the Ballistic Pendulum as an instrument of real accuracy and utility.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Questions having to do with military or naval matters will be answered in this department as soon as possible after their receipt. Communications must in all cases be signed, giving the correct name and address of the inquirer. A self-addressed stamped envelope must be enclosed if a personal reply is desired.

M.K., NEW YORK CITY.—Q. Please inform me where I can secure a list of schools at which the children of Army and Navy officers are given special terms.

A. Suggest that you write to The Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, D. C., and request that a copy of the pamphlet entitled "Concessions Granted Army Children by Civilian Educational Institutions," be forwarded to you.

NATIONAL GUARD RESERVE, PORTO RICO.—Q. (1) Are reserve National Guard officers authorized this year to attend Summer camps of instruction with pay and allowances, at their own request? (2) Please advise if there are now any new regulations relative to National Guard reserve officers?

A. (1) This class of officers can attend during this fiscal year, i. e., up to June 30, 1925, but no funds are available for this instruction for the fiscal year 1926. Suggest that you make application to the Adjutant General of Porto Rico, if you desire to take this training. (2) This question is answered in the negative. It will be a long time before these regulations are issued.

C.M.N.—Q. Have just received a letter that my father's health has failed and that my family is in actual need of my help. There are six other children besides myself, ranging in age from three months to seventeen years. The only way out is to secure a dependency discharge. Will you please give me any information on this subject.

A. The provision for securing a dependency discharge reads as follows:

"A soldier may be discharged, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, under the provisions of Section 29, Act of Congress approved June 4, 1920, when by reason of death or disability of a member of his family OCCURRING AFTER HIS ENLISTMENT, members of his family become dependent upon him for care or support. Application for discharge un-

The first comprises chapters I to IV and constitutes what may be termed the mathematical part of the book. The unsuitability of the existing ballistic tables is shown and the origin of the Hodsock tables explained, while the Hodsock results are submitted to mathematical analysis and calculated results are compared with actual records. The second part is contained in Chapter V and has purposely been written to help sportsmen and others who would like to be able to work out the trajectories of their rifles without being bothered with any technical or mathematical analysis. The third part consists of a detailed description of the Metford-Cottesloe Pendulum, written by Lord Cottesloe, and it includes a historical account of these forms of velocimeters. This is the first published description explaining the construction and use of the Metford-Cottesloe Pendulum and should prove of great interest to many and a help to all who are desirous of building similar instruments.

THE HISTORY OF MUNITIONS SUPPLY IN CANADA, 1914-18. By David Carnegie, C.B.E., M. Inst. C.E., F.R.S.C., etc. The foreword of this book is written by the Rt. Hon. D. Lloyd George, who says in part:

"This book furnishes food for thought. A record of solid achievement and fact. The statistical side of the development of munition production in Canada is amply dealt with by Colonel Carnegie in this book. But I cannot refrain from giving one or two figures illustrative of what the expansion actually was. For instance, the shipments of shells to Europe rose from 3,000 shells in 1914 to nearly 24,000,000 in 1917, and was over 16,000,000 for 1918, when demands were reduced, up to the armistice. In regard to finance, during 1917 the board's expenditure reached the approximate total of $50,000,000 per month, and at one time its rate of expenditure per annum was three times that of the total disbursements of the Canadian Government for the year 1914."

The story reads like a romance. It tells of the origin, development and remarkable achievements in the production of shells, cartridge cases, fuses, explosives, ships, aeroplanes and various raw and manufactured products amounting to the value of nearly $300,000,000. The achievements by manufacturers and men and women workers, the processes devised for rapid production and transportation of materials, the harmony of organization in directing production and inspection all tell of self-sacrifice and struggle which can never be fully recorded.

From St. Johns, Newfoundland, to Victoria, British Columbia, 675 factories in 150 different towns were engaged in the munition business. It was a time of crisis, but Canada was ready. For a nation of agriculturists to become expert in the manufacture of implements of war was an accomplishment of no mean order. The book has 44 interesting illustrations, and is handsomely printed in large readable type. The publishers are Longmans, Green & Co., 39 Paternoster Row, London, E.C., and the firm also has branches in New York, Toronto, Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

der this provision of law must be made by the soldier himself and forwarded through his commanding officer, and should be accompanied with evidence, in the form of affidavits, not only setting forth the general merit of the case, but whether the dependency has occurred through death or disability SINCE DATE OF CURRENT ENLISTMENT, and whether the soldier is rendering financial aid to the extent of his ability."

A.V., OWENSMOUTH, CALIF.—Q. Will you kindly inform me whether or not a retired soldier is entitled to the paid up insurance bonus, which recently became a law? I served during the Spanish-American War and also the World War. I was retired in 1918. I did not go overseas.

A. Sufficient information is not given in your letter to ascertain with any degree of accuracy whether or not you come under the provisions of the Adjusted Compensation law. If you served with the military forces during the World War, it appears that you are entitled to the benefits of this law. Go to nearest post office and secure application blank, filling out same in accordance with the instructions enclosed therewith.

MRS. H.B.B., CLEVELAND, OHIO.—Q. Can an enlisted man make an allotment direct to his wife while serving in the U. S.?

A. This question is answered in the affirmative. This is a voluntary matter, however, on the part of the soldier.

W.H.J., REDLANDS, CALIF.—Q. (1) Can a Reserve officer obtain a certificate of capacity before he is eligible for promotion? (2) Can a second lieutenant take a captain's examination without first becoming a first lieutenant?

A. (1) A Reserve officer can take the examination for a certificate of capacity before being eligible for promotion. See Army Regulations 140-5, paragraphs 51, 52, and 53. (2) This question is answered in the negative.

D.B.O., HALE, MO.—Q. Will you please tell me where I may obtain a book containing a list of the requirements for entering the U. S. Naval Academy?

A. You can obtain this information by writing to the Superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

C.P., FT. MONROE, VA.—You are No. 2 on the eligible list for promotion to the grade mentioned in your letter.

LEGAL DEPARTMENT

By SAMUEL T. ANSELL

The following Digest of Comptroller General's Decisions is announced:

1. In reply to a request by the Secretary of the Navy for decision upon Reference (a), paragraphs 453 and 455, System of Accountability, U.S.M.C., 1916, regarding the credit of moneys derived from the gains due to fractional parts of a cent on sales of subsistence stores, the Comptroller General said:

"It is stated that the practice of the several disbursing officers in the Quartermaster's Department, Marine Corps, has been to credit the gain due to fractional parts of a cent on sales of subsistence stores to the appropriation receiving the credit from the sales. This is not authorized. The gain is not moneys coming out of the appropriation and may not be returned thereto."

"Answering the question specifically, the gain on sales is properly for credit to miscellaneous receipts. See 2 Comp. Gen. 282." (Letter to Sec. of Navy, June 15, 1925.)

2. Upon review of a settlement taking action upon a claim for $2,802.90 as reimbursement of the cost of medical, hospital, and dental treatment between July 2, 1919, the effective date of the award of disability compensation by the United States Veterans' Bureau, and January, 1924, when claimant reported for treatment, which settlement allowed $1,967.61 but disallowed the remainder covering treatment from October 26, 1922, the Comptroller General said:

"Where a beneficiary under a retroactive award of disability compensation was not ignorant of his rights to medical treatment by the Veterans' Bureau, reimbursement for medical and dental treatment due to an injury or disability of service origin is only authorized upon a finding by the director that an emergency existed and that delay would have been hazardous. The Veterans' Bureau has found that as to the medical treatment prior to October 26, 1922, an emergency existed entitling him to reimbursement for treatment up to that date; but that no emergency existed as to the dental treatment and that the evidence was insufficient to show that it was service connected or rendered as an adjunct to his service connected disability. The Bureau further found in effect that with reference to the treatment subsequent to October 25, 1922, bureau facilities were available for such treatment and there was no emergency requiring the treatment elsewhere than in such available facilities. In the absence of conclusive evidence to the contrary, the findings of the Veterans' Bureau must be accepted."

"Upon review the settlement must be and is sustained." (Gistrak's case, June 15, 1925.)

3. Upon review of settlement No. 27019, dated July 18, 1924, wherein was disallowed claim for difference in retired pay between that received, computed upon the sea pay of a warrant officer after nine but less than twelve years of service, and an amount computed upon the sea pay of a warrant officer after twelve years of service, the Comptroller General held that, inasmuch as claimant's service record showed only a total active service of 11 years, 11 months, and 11 days, he under no condition would be entitled to retired pay computed upon the active duty pay of a warrant officer after 12 years of service, but that by reason of his permanent promotion to chief warrant officer on the retired list, the grade he would have been enabled to attain under the Act of March 3, 1909, 35 Stat. 771, after six years of service from date of warrant, claimant is entitled, from date of release from active duty, June 17, 1919, to retired pay computed upon $2,040 per annum, the shore pay of an ensign after ten years of service, or $1,530 per annum, whereas he has been receiving $1,500 per annum, and the difference between said amounts for the period from June 18, 1919, to December 31, 1924, or $166.08, was certified due him. (Wilson's case, June 15, 1925.)

4. Upon request for review of settlement disallowing in a disbursing officer's accounts credit for the purchase of one pair of rubber gloves and 18 pairs of rubber boots, the Comptroller General drew the distinction that, inasmuch as the rubber gloves were to be used only occasionally when a laborer would be called upon to handle dangerous acids in preparing solutions for storage batteries, and as the gloves were to be used indiscriminately by several different laborers if and when required to handle such acids, credit would be allowed; but that, as the rubber boots were purchased for the use of temporary laborers when digging ditches, cleaning fountains, etc., they were essentially for the comfort and convenience of the temporary laborers and constituted personal furnishings which are not chargeable to public funds in the absence of specific statutory authority therefor. (Haring's case, June 15, 1925.)

5. Relative to the pay of a colonel of the Marine Corps retired under the last paragraph of Sec. 7, Act of March 4, 1925, by reason of having attained the age of 56 years and not placed on the eligible list for appointment as brigadier general or head of a staff corps; that certain words necessary to the sense of the statute were obviously omitted and that pay should be computed at 2½ per centum "for each year of total active service," which quoted words should be supplied. (Letter to Sec. of Navy, June 5, 1925.)

6. Upon a chief torpedoman's application for review of a disallowance of his claim for difference in pay between the rate of chief gunner's mate, acting appointment, and that of gunner's mate, first class, where it was shown that the disrating was intended as a punishment and not on account of incompetency and the original rating was not established by the commanding officer who established the rating. Held, That, in view of Article 24, Articles for the Government of the Navy, authorizing a commanding officer to inflict as a punishment for an offense, "reduction of any rating established by himself," and of the fact that the disrating in question was by a commanding officer who had not established the rating, claimant was entitled to the difference of a pay claimed. (Smith's case, June 4, 1925.)

An innovation this year, which should prove popular, is that of having all the national matches in the last week grouped as follows:

Sept. 14, National Ind. Pistol Match.
 Sept. 15, National Team Pistol Match.
 Sept. 16, National Ind. Rifle Match.
 Sept. 17, National Team Rifle Practice.
 Sept. 18, National Team Rifle Match.
 Sept. 19, National Team Rifle Match.

This will give all day Saturday for the 1,000-yard stage of the National Team Match, permitting it to start as late as 9:30 a. m. if visibility is poor and leave the "get-away" day for Sunday, September 20, so that men do not have to get up before daylight to turn in property and get fatigued before shooting the classic stage of the big match.

The matches will be so condensed that the entire trip will be but four instead of five weeks, and two weeks advanced on the calendar, thus evading the chill October weather.

There is one big change in the National Rifle Match conditions, both for individuals and teams—400 yards, rapid fire on a "B" target will be substituted for 300 yards on an "A" target. The time, 1 minute and 10 seconds, will be the same, but only shots inside the "V" ring—a white circle within the bull—to count as 5, the balance of the black to count with the 4 ring.

Col. A. J. MacNab, U.S.A., has been appointed executive officer of the 1925 National Matches by the War Department.

COL. F. R. TOMPKINS HONORED

THE class of '26, Norwich University, Northfield, Vt., in publishing The War Whoop, just issued, the college yearbook, have dedicated the section devoted to the class of '26 to Col. Frank Tompkins, U. S. Cav. Ret., as follows:

"The members of the class of 1926 are the last cadets to have enjoyed the supervision of Col. Frank Tompkins. As such we wish to express our profound appreciation of his admirable qualities as an officer, a disciplinarian and a man. His thorough knowledge of military science, his fairness and courtesy as a commandant and his sincerity and courage as a man have helped and inspired us. For these and all else that makes the charm of Colonel Tompkins we are grateful."

Colonel Tompkins has served as professor of military science and tactics and commandant at Norwich University as follows: 1910 to 1913, 1916 to 1917, 1919 to 1923. During his last detail, 1919-1923, he raised the money and built a large stable, a large riding hall, promoted and pushed to a successful conclusion the building of the new athletic field (Sabine Field), and increased the endowment by half a million dollars.

While this accomplishment is large, it ranks small in the Colonel's mind as compared with the love, esteem and respect he has always enjoyed of the student body, as exemplified in the tribute above.

ENLISTED MEN ENTER U.S.M.A.

THE class of cadets which enters the United States Military Academy on July 1 will include 26 men appointed from the Regular Army.

Regulations governing the size of the Corps of Cadets provide that 180 of the total of 1,334, or approximately 14 per cent, be appointed from among the enlisted men of the Regular Army and of the National Guard, in number as nearly equal as possible. At present 83 cadets are former soldiers of the Regular Establishment.

Cadets who have served as enlisted men frequently are among the most distinguished members of the corps. The man who led the Class of 1924 was a former soldier, Wallace H. Hastings, a native of California. Earle E. Partridge, who was born in Massachusetts, another cadet appointed from the ranks, was sixth in the class. Twenty-three members of this class, which totaled 406 when graduated, were appointed from the Army.

Of the enlisted men who enter West Point next month, 11 were privates in the Army, 8 privates (first class), and 7 corporals. While they were appointed from nearly every branch of the Service, the Infantry furnished the largest number, 10. The others represent the Field Artillery,

Coast Artillery, Cavalry, Corps of Engineers, Air Service, Medical Department, Signal Corps, and Army War College Detachment.

GEN. BUNDY PRAISED BY ACTING SEC'Y OF WAR

MAJ. GEN. OMAR BUNDY, U.S.A., who was retired on June 17, 1925, on reaching the age limit of 64 years, as recently noted in this paper, has received the following letter of praise from the Acting Secretary of War for his long and efficient service:

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, June 17, 1925.

Maj. Gen. OMAR BUNDY,
The Highlands, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR GENERAL BUNDY:

On the occasion of your retirement from active service in the Army by reason of having reached the statutory age of retirement, 64 years, I desire to express to you my best wishes.

You have had a long and eventful military career. You entered the United States Military Academy more than 45 years ago. You participated in campaigns against the Crow Indians of Montana and the Sioux Indians of the Dakotas; in the Spanish-American War before Santiago; in the Philippine insurrection; and took a prominent part in the activities of our armed forces in the World War. At Chateau Thierry the 2d Division, under your command, demonstrated conclusively the force and power of the United States Army and indicated that our man power must be seriously reckoned with in determining the eventual result of the greatest war in history. In all of these situations you have sustained a record for loyalty, gallantry and devotion to duty.

I further congratulate you on the effective and efficient performance of your duties as commanding general of the 5th Corps Area in the closing period of your active service. The high place which you have obtained in the affections of the citizens of your corps area indicates that you have been especially successful in appreciating the responsibility and duties of the Regular Army under our new military policy. Now as you retire I trust you will live long to enjoy your well-earned rest.

Sincerely yours,
 DWIGHT T. DAVIS,
Acting Secretary of War.

FT. BENNING Q.M. ASSN.

Lt. Col. A. B. Warfield was reelected president of the Ft. Benning Chapter of the Quartermaster Association, when the chapter celebrated both the 150th anniversary of the Quartermaster Corps and its own growth in the four years of its organization with a banquet at Columbus, Ga.

Besides President Warfield, the new roster of officers includes Capt. W. A. Coates, Q.M.C., first vice-president; Thomas P. Wade, Central of Georgia division freight agent, second vice-president; Capt. Edw. J. Turgeon, secretary and treasurer. The board of managers is composed of L. W. McPherson, Capt. A. S. Harrison, W. W. Hunt and William Hart.

The honor roll, containing the names of those who have been particularly diligent in serving the Ft. Benning Chapter, was read by Captain Sturgeon. Those named were Marshall Dixon, L. W. McPherson, William Banner, J. B. Hecht, Captain Porter, Lieutenant Folsing, Lt. R. G. Schmidt and Henry S. Gilson.

Speakers were Col. G. W. Helms, acting commandant of Ft. Benning in the absence of General Wells; Colonel Warfield; Mayor J. Homer Dimon; Congressman W. C. Wright; and G. Gunby Jordan. William Hart was toastmaster.

Colonel Helms paid tribute to the efficiency of the Q.M.C. and stressed its importance in maintaining an Army both in peace and in war.

Mayor Dimon dwelt on the close accord between city and Army post and touched on the progress that has pushed Georgia ever forward in the industrial structure of the nation.

Congressman Wright told of legislation for the strengthening of the Army post, in which he had had a part. He also spoke of Georgia's industrial growth.

G. Gunby Jordan gave the history of the Quartermaster Corps from its beginning, 150 years ago, to the present, telling of the important part it has taken in the wars of the United States, and its traditions.

The Ft. Benning Chapter, it was brought out in reports, stands fifth among 30 chapters in the United States. This position was reached in the last four years, at the beginning of which it stood seventeenth among 18 chapters. The goal set for the next annual dinner was that the chapter might rank second.

Have You Ever Thought Of It In This Way?

If you have $11

—available for investment and can invest the same amount each month for nine succeeding months (which, of course, you can do)—

It is not necessary —to delay placing your subscription for one Unit of National Capital Mortgage Company stock, consisting of 5 shares of Cumulative Preferred (on which 8% is assured) at $20 and 5 shares of Common (also paying 8%, with every indication of paying more later) at $2—total, $110 a Unit.

To wait until you have more

—is like losing money, because each payment begins to earn dividends at the full rate (8%), payable quarterly, from the date received.

Any number of Units may be purchased on this convenient plan—10% down and 10% a month.

The monthly payment plan is an easy way to save.

M. I. ASS'N OF CHICAGO

Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale, commanding the 6th Corps Area was the guest of the Military Intelligence Association of Chicago at a luncheon held recently at the Hamilton Club. General Hale retires from active service in July, and the luncheon was given him as a modest testimonial of the appreciation of members of the M. I. Association for the help and support he has given to the work of the Association. General Hale responded to requests that he address the membership in his usual engaging manner, livening the farewell character of his message with a humorous anecdote or two which were thoroughly enjoyed by all present. His appreciation of the work of the Association under the direction of Col. Wm. B. Graham, Inf., inspired all to renewed determination to maintain the high level of patriotic work being accomplished by the Military Intelligence Association.

At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Military Intelligence Association of Chicago in June, Lt. Col. A. E. Barnes, QM-Res, was elected president of the association to fill the unexpired term of Capt. Charles T. Ross, MI-Res.

MAJ. GEN. HUGH L. SCOTT, U.S.A., Ret., has announced that "Buffalo Bill's" biography is to be the subject of a motion picture, which also will be a record of the rapidly vanishing country in which he attained his fame as an Indian fighter and a colonizer. Plans for the picture, General Scott stated, were made at the fiftieth anniversary of the class of '75 at West Point recently, during June Week. The late Lt. Gen. Nelson A. Miles had suggested the idea, and Major General Scott, who was a close associate of William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), developed it. The picture will be based on the biography of Buffalo Bill, entitled "The Last of the Great Scouts," written by his sister and produced by Miss Catherine Curtis, of 351 Madison Avenue, New York City. Associated with General Scott in gathering data for the film are Maj. Gen. E. S. Godfrey, U.S.A., Ret., a close friend of Buffalo Bill; Maj. H. R. Lemly, U.S.A., Ret.; Col. W. C. Brown, U.S.A.; Maj. THE FINANCIAL DIGEST

This paper will be glad to furnish to its readers information on any brokerage house. A letter addressed to the Army and Navy Journal, 10 Jackson Place N. W., Washington, D. C., will bring the information desired.

The statements made herein are based upon information and statistics which we consider reliable. But as not made upon our personal knowledge we do not guarantee their correctness.

By RAYMOND V. SYKES

The character of the stock and bond markets is little changed from that of the last several weeks. Average prices for stocks are the highest ever reached in history, due to the extremely high level at which the industrials are selling. Bond prices continue strong through an undiminished investment demand, and new issues are being snapped up almost before they are offered.

The situation in connection with bonds, and by the same token sound preferred stocks, is not difficult to understand. The increase in national wealth since 1900, and more especially during the last 10 years, has been nothing short of miraculous. The gain has not been so great in money, although over one-half of the world's gold supply is concentrated here, but its equivalent, credit, seems to be almost unlimited. A proportionate demand for its employment is to be expected.

Furthermore, should production be increased, including farm crops as well as manufactured products, the supply of credit is likely to increase also, rather than the contrary. The greater the supply of any commodity, the less its exchange value or price, is an indisputable economic law. And the lower its price the smaller the amount of credit needed to finance its production and distribution and the greater the supply left over for use elsewhere, which means investment in fixed income-bearing securities. The outlook, as a result, favors continued high prices for bonds and preferred stocks of proved investment merit.

Speculative industrial common stocks, however, do not have such a well-defined favorable outlook. Plant capacity in almost every line is greater than employed at present, the steel industry, for example, is operating at about 70 per cent of capacity and the copper industry is so overexpanded that the large producers have voluntarily curtailed output in order to hold prices at even their prewar levels.

A slight pick-up in general business activity would very likely result in such a speeding-up in production as to bring about lower prices, as stated above. Nor is it improbable that price-cutting will start on a broad scale first in an effort to put to use now idle and unprofitable plants. As a matter of fact, this is already apparent. Commodity price indexes show a steady drop month by month since December of last year, with one exception.

Falling prices is a natural phenomenon following a period of wartime expansion and has been recorded after every great war, as is well known, lasting for a number of years in each instance.

Industrial concerns are likely to suffer under such conditions from a smaller margin of profit and shrinking inventories. Their plight in 1921 through the latter cause is too recent to be forgotten. On the other hand, the railroads and public utilities should benefit. As their rates for service are more or less fixed, any increase in business activity would result in increased earnings, and lower prices would mean smaller operating costs. The combined effect on net profits is not difficult to see.

While there are none of the usual earmarks of a bear market being close at hand, it would not be unwise for those who have profits in industrial common stocks to switch into investment bonds and preferred stocks. And it would be most unwise for those who have not yet entered the industrial stock list to do so now.

There is an old saying that those whom the gods would ruin they first make optimists. To be sanguine enough to expect the bull market in industrial common stocks to continue uninterrupted very much longer is to court disaster. In other words, a little pessimism now and then might save a good deal of misery, as certain Central Europeans who overrated their military strength in 1914 ought to be willing to admit.

CAMP McCLELLAN

them to remember that they were being clothed and fed by the United States Government. Captain Bachman, the athletic officer, outlined to

Captain Stafford, who outlined the recreation program for the camp. Chaplain McNally of-

General and Mrs. Parker, the General's command of the 1st Division in the World War

"I will return bearing my shield—or upon it!"

The slogan of victory or death!

In the Montdidier sector, the 29th of June, 1918, Company "D," 26th Infantry, sent out a raiding party under Lieutenant Freml, D. S. C.

They reached the German line before the Hun counter-battery work began . . . down into the dugouts smoking out the Boche . . . through communicating trenches . . . thrusting, firing and bombing!

But Lieutenant Freml, ever in the thick of the fight, inspiring his men, was shot and killed.

Thirty-three German prisoners were taken and the raiding party returned to its trenches with but two killed and four wounded. The body of the victorious leader was brought back by the men. He had returned, "carried upon his shield."
